WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Death today removed from the senate the man who had participated in more of the political struggles of that body than any other person in history—Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming.

The 85-year-old "dean" of the senate, who had served continuously since 1895 and for three years previously, succumbed at 10:05 o'clock this morning to an attack of pneumonia after three weeks' illness starting with bronchitis.

The veteran statesman was the oldest member of the senate both in years and length of service and was the only member who participated in the War Between the States, serving in the Union army along with Justice Holmes of the supreme court. Representative Steadman, of North Carolina, is a veteran of the Confederate army.

Shock to Colleagues.
His passing came as a shock to his senate colleagues and to his many Washington friends who had hoped his rugged constitution would bring him through to recovery.

A turn for the worse came last night and so weakened his resistance that he was unable to rally, despite every effort made by his physician, Dr. John Minor, who maintained an all-night vigil at the bedside.

Present when he died was Mrs. Warren; his son, Fred Warren, of Cheyenne, and his son-in-law, General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary force to France in the World War. General Pershing, upon his arrival from abroad Monday, visited his father-in-law and expressed confidence that he would recover.

Pioneer of the west, Senator Warren was intensely interested in development of that section, but he was best known for his work in the senate. As chairman of the powerful appropriations committee since the Harding administration came into power in 1921, he was responsible for piloting through the senate the legislation providing for the monetary needs of the federal government.

Worked on Bills.
Only recently, until he became ill, he had been at work preparing for the appropriation bills which will come before congress when it convenes in regular session December 2.

An indefatigable worker, he remained at his post in the senate during a number of all-night sessions in the filibustering of recent years and during the last few weeks he demanded at a republican party conference that the senate go into night sessions to pass the tariff bill, promising to attend them all.

Physically he was very active and despite his age refused to ride the elevators at the capitol, always using the stairs in his frequent trips between the senate chamber and his office.

Funeral services had not been arranged tonight but it was said he would be buried at Cheyenne. Vice President Curtis plans to appoint a delegation from the senate to attend the funeral and similar action is expected to be taken by Speaker Longworth of the house.

A state funeral will be held for Senator Warren in the senate chamber Tuesday afternoon, to which high government officials will be invited.

The ceremonies will be conducted by Rev. Z. B. Phillips, the senate chaplain, and afterward the body will be placed on a train for Wyoming. General Pershing and members of the family will make the trip to Cheyenne.

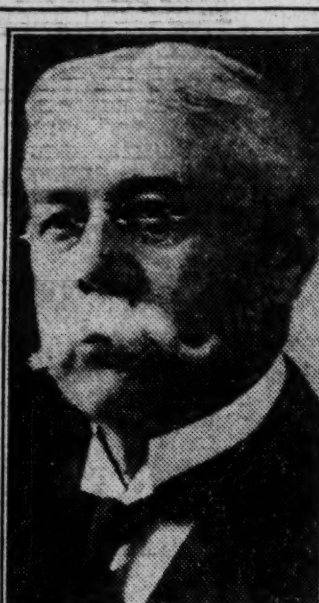

Committees from the two houses of congress were appointed tonight by Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth. These included members of the appropriations committees of the two branches, many of the older members of the senate, and a group of western representatives.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(United News.)—President Hoover paid tribute to Senator Francis E. Warren, republican, Wyoming, who died here today.

24-HOUR GROOM COMMITS SUICIDE

J. M. Fountain, 41, Shoots Self at Farm Home of Aged Father Near Lindale, Ga.

LINDALE, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—J. M. Fountain, 41, a bridegroom of less than 24 hours, and believed to have been despondent over recent deaths in his immediate family, shot and killed himself at the farm home of his aged father, near here, today.

Yesterday Fountain and Miss Odesa Goings, 19, were married, going after the ceremony to the farm home in the Cave Spring district, where they were to live.

No explanatory note was found after the shooting, but it was brought out at a coroner's inquest today that Fountain had grieved considerably over the death last April of his mother, and the accidental drowning of a brother a short time previously. It was stated that the drowning occurred while Fountain was near-by but powerless to prevent it. It was also in evidence that Fountain had been in ill health for some time.

GRASSHOPPERS STOP MOROCCAN TRAIN TWICE IN DAY

RABAT, Morocco, Nov. 24.—(United News.)—Grasshoppers stopped a Rabat-Casablanca train twice today.

Migrating in clouds, destroying crops as they go, they obscured the railway track and blinded the engineers' vision, making it impossible for the train to proceed.

Down the broad Ugambé river a small boat floated with the ebb tide and current. Her crew were lazily enjoying this rest from their toil of rowing up-stream. As they neared the sea, where waited the mother-ship, ready to sail back to England, their attention was suddenly attracted to a strange apparition appearing on the jungle shore. With skinny arms outstretched it screamed at them in a wild, cackling voice.

HUGE LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM FACING COMING CONGRESS

President Hoover's First Message to Regular Session Being Awaited With Intense Interest.

BY CECIL B. DICKSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A jaded senate, racked by tariff strife, and a rested house, fresh from months of idleness, convene next Monday to face what is foreseen as a legislative program of great peacetime proportions and importance.

Not since the post-war period have there been so many prospective major legislative proposals of a sweeping nature to confront a first regular session of congress.

The long-considered tariff bill will again occupy the harassed senate after a ten-day cessation of turmoil between the special and regular sessions. Tax reduction, appropriation bills, ratification of the French debt agreement and transfer of prohibition administration from the treasury to the justice department are matters viewed as requiring early attention in both houses.

Other Big Bills.

While house leaders hope the senate will pass the tariff measure so it can be sent to conference by the Christmas holidays, they are making plans to deal with other important legislation affecting rivers and harbor improvement, the federal road commission, railroad consolidation, motor bus regulation, expansion of military aviation programs, Muscle Shoals, public lands and Indian affairs.

With organization difficulties evident for the senate majority leaders as long as the democratic-independent coalition continues, majority house leaders anticipate no such difficulty. Led by Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the floor leader, and Chairman Snell, of the house rules committee, the republicans have a fair majority. Aided by rules limiting debate, the republicans have perfected a machine that so far has ridden over all opposition of the democrats.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, who surrendered the republican leadership to Senator Jones, of Washington, during the last few weeks of the special session to take a much needed rest, will return this week to seek to regain the republican and independent seats and secure a working majority.

House Wants to Work.

Having waited since last June for the senate to pass the tariff bill, house members are eager to get to work. They have been marking time since September 23 with semi-weekly sessions at which they did no work.

Chairman Hawley, of the house ways and means committee, has drafted a resolution calling for a $100,000,000 tax reduction on 1929 incomes which the administration sponsors and on which leaders of both parties in both houses have agreed. It will be the first major legislative business before the house.

Hearings on four supply bills are under way, and Representative Tilson predicted that the treasury and postoffice bill, which probably will call for an outlay of nearly a billion dollars, and the war department bill, would be passed by the Christmas holidays. In view of President Hoover's desire to reduce appropriations for military purposes, a curtailment is expected in the war department bill, while an increase is expected for non-military purposes.

MISS SUE B. HALEY DIES AT CHURCH

Devoted Home Mission Worker Addressing Group at First Presbyterian at Time of Attack.

Miss Sue B. Haley, 39, for more than 15 years connected with the home mission work of the Presbyterian church, fell dead at the First Presbyterian church about 7 o'clock Sunday night while in the performance of the work with which she had been identified for so many years.

Miss Haley was addressing the young people of the church in the interest of home mission work, when she suffered the fatal attack, and collapsed. Despite the efforts of physicians who were in the church at the time, Miss Haley died before she could be removed to a hospital. The body was carried to her home at 1273 Euclid avenue. She was a member of the West End Presbyterian church but had been invited to speak before the young people's organization of the First church.

For more than 15 years Miss Haley had been connected with the executive committee of home missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States. The jurisdiction of which organization extends over sixteen southern states. At the time of her death Miss Haley was the secretary of literature, which post she had held for five years, being appointed in 1924 by the executive committee.

She is survived by her father, J. E. Haley; two sisters, Mrs. N. H. Stockton and Mrs. J. B. Alexander; a brother, J. E. Haley; a niece, Mrs. Albert Dunson; and a nephew, Ruble Stockton. Funeral arrangements are in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son, and the time of services will be announced later.

TURKISH WOMEN WIN SUFFRAGE IN MUNICIPALITIES

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Turkish women have made another advance toward complete emancipation by winning the right to vote in municipal elections and to hold municipal offices.

The parliamentary committee has modified the existing law reserving the vote on municipal affairs to men. The modified law gallantly puts women first, saying: "Every Turkish woman or man has the right to elect or be elected in municipal elections."

GERMANS HONOR SOLDIERS KILLED IN WORLD WAR

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Today was Decoration Day in Germany. President Paul von Hindenburg attended the ceremony at the war cemetery of the Berlin garrison at the Protestant cemetery which was so crowded that the gates had to be closed and thousands of persons were turned away.

It rambled over years of privation, hardships and torture in the awful jungle. He was a Russian, but how he came to Africa and his name, he would not say. The man concluded he had forgotten the incident of his former life because of the frightful ordeals he had experienced. Ten years had he been a slave in a cannibal village, beaten and stoned by the women, slashed and disfigured by the warriors.

Every Cannon in Country, Afloat or in Colonies, To Crash Out Armistice Salute of 101 Guns.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Georges Clemenceau, the father of victory, his sufferings ended early today by death which closed 88 years of a fighting life, tonight was being taken for eternal rest in the loneliness of a little wood near Mouchamps in his beloved Vendée.

The man who had been a firm and fiery premier for France in her trial of the World War rode through the darkness in an automobile hearse over 250 miles of road toward the southeast to a spot within 30 miles of the sea he loved so well.

There he will be buried tomorrow morning under the trees in a grave that his chauffeur and friend, M. Brabant, dug for him today. He will enter the soil of his France for which he had fought so valiantly at a spot he himself had selected. The grave will be marked by a stone friends had sent from Greece which he had erected several years ago with few, if any, sharing his secret.

He will be buried upright, as his father was before him. What he desired above all was to carry out to the end his appearance of a hard exterior, which all knew covered a warm heart. He lived and wanted to die "a man." In one of his last lucid moments on his deathbed, he said, "I want no women; I want no tears. Let me die before men."

Funeral Like Poilu's

Clemenceau in death as in life rejected ostentation and ceremony. He asked that when he died, he should be permitted merely to disappear. He wished a funeral as quiet, as drab, as bare as those for a million of "his boys" killed in the long struggle which his leadership helped turn to a triumph and caused them to feebly grateful parliament to acclaim him "father of victory."

The simplicity of the burial will make it seem almost sacred. Premier Andre Tardieu, a close friend, was called to the death chamber in the house in Rue Franklin shortly after the death at 1:45 a. m. He told the family of the government wish to give the statesman a national funeral. He knew, as the family did, that Clemenceau had wished exactly the reverse and when the will was opened at 10 a. m. that wish was formally expressed.

M. Brabant left by automobile within an hour after the death to dig the grave for his beloved master. This was all a part of the carefully arranged plans of Clemenceau. Three years ago at Luxembourg he had told a group of senators, "You know, when I die it won't be announced. You will learn of it only after my burial. When the time came he was, of course, not able to attain such a complete degree of self-effacement."

Cuts Red Tape

M. Tardieu respected the wishes of his friend and cut red tape to facilitate privacy at the burial. He ordered a cordon of gendarmes thrown about the woods.

Yet while the simple ceremony was taking place in that far-off, lonely spot, at exactly the same hour the "cannon of the armistice" sounded the last note of the World War will again fire and exactly the same salute of 101 shots, as it did at 11 o'clock on November 11 in 1918.

Every battery of artillery in France and her colonies and the guns of every

FARM LEADERS TO CONFER TODAY AT WHITE HOUSE

Meeting Completes Cycle in President's Effort To Stimulate All Lines of Business.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—President Hoover completes his cycle of business progress conferences tomorrow by receiving heads of farm organizations at the White House.

This will be his first meeting with spokesmen for the agriculture industry since the farm relief legislation was put into operation, and it is to be expected that there will be such assurances of federal co-operation as to stimulate the industry.

The president may have covered the major fields of endeavor in the country with the conclusion of tomorrow's conference. He also has called upon the governors of the states to co-operate fully with the movement to offset the effects of the stock market situation by speeding up as far as possible the programs of public construction in states, cities and counties. Out of the conferences which Mr. Hoover initiated will come a more or less permanent organization within the industries which is to be performed at a meeting here on December 5. This was called today by the United States Chamber of Commerce, which has sent invitations to from 150 to 250 business leaders representing practically all of the business groups in the nation.

Hoover to Speak

President Hoover will open this conference with a brief talk outlining his purposes and reviewing what has been accomplished. This is followed by a letter, copies of which will be sent tomorrow to the groups and which will be signed by Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, and William J. Butterworth, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"This conference will be opened by President Hoover," the letter will say, "and is the outgrowth of a conviction on his part that American business is so organized as to be fully capable of mobilizing its forces in co-operation with the government."

"It is gratifying that from such high authority should come this recognition of the efficiency and trustworthiness of business organizations in this country, and there is now a responsibility upon us to discharge this trust with sober devotion and personal efficiency."

The preliminary conferences which the president held last week with individual business leaders indicates a situation that has no fundamental weaknesses. Indeed, the absence of weak factors and the presence of strong ones constitute tribute to the high standards and the wise practices of American business. There are no burdensome stocks of commodities, and this is owing to far-sighted management.

SOVIETS ATTACK ALL ALONG ROUTE OF DISPUTED ROAD

Civilian and Soldier Refugees From Besieged Area Move Eastward, Looting Along Way.

MUDKEN SEEKING SEPARATE PEACE

Russian Planes Are Bombing City of Khailar, Which Is Also Reported Captured.

TOKYO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A telegram from Japanese sources in Harbin today said soviet cavalry and tanks had penetrated behind the Chinese army's position at Khailar, in Manchuria, cutting off the Chinese retreat. Severe fighting was reported.

Another Harbin telegram estimated Chinese casualties at 12,000. Chinese likewise were reported losing heavily on the border east of Khailar. The message said soviet troops had extended their line around Muling, west of Pogranichnaya. Khailar was reported captured.

Other dispatches to Rengo, Japanese news agency, from Harbin and Mukden, today said the Chinese military had abandoned all pretense of defending the Chinese Eastern railway west of the Khingnan mountains and were fleeing eastward, looting on the way. Civilian and soldier refugees were described as demoralized.

Separate Peace

Seeming confirmation of reports that Mukden will sue for a separate peace with Russia was included in the dispatches, which said the Chinese already were negotiating with M. Melnikoff, former consul general at Harbin, now at Chita, in Siberia.

Chinese sources quoted by Rengo said headquarters were being established at Buchatu, about 100 miles east of Khailar. Preparations for evacuation of Khailar were being made several days ago. Soviet airplanes were said to be bombing that city steadily.

The reported Russian occupation extends 100 kilometers east of Manchuli, along the Chinese Eastern railway. Considerable Russian forces were said to be in possession of the stations Delainor and Zagan, but information concerning reports that Khailar is admittedly trustworthy. It is therefore impossible to determine how far the Chinese retreat was due to panic or actual soviet military pressure. The Russians may be raising on a larger scale than hitherto or invading to stay.

8,000 Disarmed

Moscow dispatches claiming the Russian troops disarmed 8,000 Chinese and captured 10,000 rifles have been supported by Chinese accounts of a military disaster in the northwest where Chinese garrisons at Manchuli, Delainor and elsewhere simply melted away.

Although Japanese correspondents have been inclined to exaggerate the Chinese difficulties, there is little doubt but that the regime of Chang Hsueh-Liang, military governor of Manchuria, is trying to sue for a separate peace. It is announced in that direction by actual financial distress, plus the importunities of Chang Tso-siang and Wan, Fu Lin, military aides, whose troops are bearing the brunt of the soviet attack.

The loss of men and materials undoubtedly has been considerable, while troops remaining to confront the Russians were described as lacking sufficient food, ammunition or

EPIDEMIC OF KILLING HITS KENTUCKY COUNTY

Four Shot to Death in Three Days; Brothers Die.

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 24.—(P)—The list of killings in this mountain county of Bell was raised to four in three days last night, when guns blazed at Blackmont, near here, snuffing out the lives of Roosevelt Saylor, 26, and his brother, Joe Saylor, 21, who lived in the vicinity.

Officers today arrested Than Ely in connection with the latest gun play and held Jim Scott as a material witness. According to the story told of- ficers, Ely and Scott appeared at the Blackmont hotel, operated by Joe Saylor, and asked about rooms. A discussion followed, the officers were told, and Roosevelt heard the argument and came down stairs. Roosevelt was shot as he stepped on the porch, according to the story, and Joe was hit in the head with a pistol butt and then shot twice. Both men died soon after.

'Social Lion' Shoved to Background As Emory Students Pick 'Ideal' Mates

"What Kind of a Mate I Desire" is the topic under discussion by this group of Emory students. Bill Woodruff (left) is telling Lucille Coleman (extreme right) his ideas on the subject and Sarah Lee Potts and Earl Miller are listening attentively. Woodruff, of Decatur, is a law student; Miss Potts and Miss Coleman, liberal arts students, from Atlanta, and Miller is a theological student and a graduate of George Washington University in his home city, Washington, D. C.

Choosing a mate will be something of a realistic process for the present college generation, if the opinions of Emory University students may be taken as a criterion. Romance has not lost its glamor; it is merely becoming more sensible, apparently. Tall, handsome and immaculate gentlemen, football heroes, the captivating centers of attention at midnight frolics and the charming sponsors gracing the pages of beauty sections in college annuals, may be the "wall flowers" when the wedding music begins. Suitable mates are by no means found in the over-colored social swirl of college life, both co-eds and eds have generally agreed.

"It's pretty hard to say what your ideal is when you know you won't even think about it when you really fall in love," was Sarah Lee Potts' way of putting the matter. "At that time your ideal will be 'him'; you will be blinded to the virtues of others." Thus those who fear the loss of true love in the matter of choice will have their fears dispelled. But the majority of the co-eds see no good reason for going into the matter of matrimony blinded to everything else but love.

Ideal on High Plane. This co-ed's ideal is pitched on a high plane. "He" must be "eugenically fit, physically and mentally trustworthy, chivalrous, considerate and sympathetic, a good mixer, a good companion, have a capacity for a college education, ability to earn a comfortable living and good prospects, have a personality, possess a sense of humor and high Christian ideals. Above all he must demand my respect and admiration, call forth the best in me and love me and me only—be a one-woman man."

Lucille Coleman agreed with Sarah Lee Potts in most of the discussion but she believes that if a man is trustworthy, in every sense of the word, he would be acceptable in every relation to his mate. If he is trustworthy, his business relations and ability, loyalty to her, spirit of service, companionship and almost every other virtue would be included.

When Earl Miller, the "theologian" and Bill Woodruff, the prospective barrister, finally secured a hearing, they differed in several aspects.

Woodruff, who is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, wanted to be sure that his ideal future-intended was no taller than himself. "She must be good-looking and able to cook three meals a day without giving me indigestion. I don't care whether she is a college graduate or not, but she must be intellectual and able to read and discuss things in which I am interested."

Wants College Graduate. Earl Miller has as his ideal a college graduate, if possible, and he

CANDLER FIELD

Beeler Blevins announced Sunday night that two new instructors had been added to the faculty of his night school of aviation, which he stated, is showing fine progress. The additions are R. F. Newirth, selected as chief instructor, and R. C. West, who will teach theory of flight and aviation engines, the latter subject to be handled in conjunction with G. W. Stripling. Mr. Newirth holds a degree in aeronautical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. West, an old-timer in the aviation field, is said to have had more than 2,000 hours, being forced to abandon the field a few years ago because of poor health. He soloed on a Curtiss "pusher" of the vintage of 1912 or 1913 or thereabouts. Blevins reported that 16 active students have been enrolled in the school, which Sunday entered its fourth week of class work.

The enlargement of Beeler Blevins' hangar at Candler field, a project which will permit the storing therein of four additional planes, is expected to be completed by Wednesday. The expansion is being accomplished by removing the west wall of the hangar and continuing the roof to the ground.

Lindbergh's recent purchase of a low-wing, open-cockpit Lockheed, which is almost a flying gasoline tank, having a cruising radius of 3,500 miles, lends some credence to the rumor that the famous aviator is planning another one of his long hops. The new ship, which is dubbed the "Sirius" by the Lockheed people, is almost the counterpart of the ill-fated plane which was to have been flown to Tokyo and which was cracked up on the takeoff some time ago. It is equipped with dual controls for the accommodation of Mrs. Lindbergh and has a top speed of about 180 miles an hour.

The Fahys will spend a day or so here and then will depart by train for Washington, where they will spend a few days, continuing their journey to Detroit. At that point they will take possession of their new plane, a custom-built Waco, equipped with a Siemens "Yankee" of 120 horsepower, and together they will fly it back to their home on the coast. Like her husband, Mrs. Fahy is an illustrious pilot, and competed in the famous women's air derby from Santa Monica to Los Angeles last year. She stated Sunday upon her arrival here that she intended to go after several records—including the endurance and speed marks for women when she reached her California home.

George Shealy, well-known Atlanta flier, who has been connected with Southern Air Transport for some time, has severed his connection with that organization and has joined the Curtis-Wright Sales Corporation, for which Doug Davis recently was made southern manager. Shealy, who has been flying in these parts for several years, was connected with the Doug Davis Flying Service, joining S. A. T. when that concern bought out Davis'.

ITINERANT GERMAN ARTIST STOPS OVER FOR VISIT HERE

Herman Ewert, an itinerant German artist, stepped from an Atlanta-Athens bus here Saturday afternoon and took a quiet rest at Greater Atlanta of a pair of blue eyes, and an appraisal of the city evidently pleased him. He said Sunday night that he expected to remain here until after Christmas.

The 60-year-old Teuton, who displays a scrapbook containing numerous newspaper clippings about his travels, speaks several languages and has seen much of the universe during his travels, which, during 38 years, have taken him over much of the globe.

He earns his way by selling small oil paintings, the subjects of which are scenes of his travel. A lover of the water, Ewert's sketches generally have a lake, the sea, or a river for their background.

The affable German said he had several commissions to execute while in Atlanta, which were entrusted to him by South Carolinians.

MISSING WIFE OF NEW YORKER SOUGHT

Search for Missing Spouse of Former Banker Engages 50,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(P)—A nation-wide search, with more than 50,000 persons engaged, has been inaugurated in an attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Beecher Maynard Crouse, wife of a Utica (N. Y.) millionaire, police disclosed today.

Mrs. Crouse disappeared from her home, 1415 Genesee street, Utica, the night of November 14. Her husband, until a month ago, was president of the First Bank and Trust Company of Utica. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for her safe return.

Captain John H. Ayres, of the missing persons bureau of the New York police department, described the case "as the most puzzling disappearance case" in all his experience. He said the persons engaged in the search included all the state and municipal police of New York and the railroad police and employees of the country.

Photographs of Mrs. Crouse have been sent throughout the country. Patrick Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad, has asked the presidents of other railroads in the country to co-operate.

PRISONER OF WAR, GIVEN UP AS DEAD, BRINGS WIFE HOME

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 24.—(United News)—Giovanni Rossini, Alpine soldier long given up for dead, returned very much alive today to his home city of Pagnana Valassina. But he reversed the usual Enoch Arden role by bringing a wife with him.

Rossini said he had been captured by Austrians in 1917, but escaped to Rumania. He brought a wife and three children from Rumania.

pathizers of the Zionist movement, got under way here Saturday following the naming of David Meyer as chairman of the roll call committee.

Mr. Meyer, who is worshipful master of the Fulton Masonic lodge, past president of the Jewish Progressive Club and a member of the Georgia Bar Association, will direct the efforts of the committee in an intensive drive that will cover the entire local Jewry. He will preside at a number of meetings to be held in connection with the campaign.

The movement is seen as the latest outgrowth of the disturbance that occurred several months ago in Palestine. According to Mr. Meyer, the purpose of the roll call at this time is to indicate to the British mandator that the American and world Jewry are still undeterred in their support of establishing the Jewish homeland in the Holy Land.

A highlight of the roll call movement in Atlanta will be the visit here next Sunday of Abraham Goldberg, noted Jewish editor of New York, who recently returned from Palestine where he was eyewitness to the fatal rioting. Mr. Goldberg will address a gathering at the Jewish Woman's Club.

Assisting Mr. Meyer in local arrangements for the address next Sunday night of the visiting editor are Joseph Goldstein, J. Dorfman, M. Rich, Max M. Cuba, H. Bergman and Louis Isaacson.

THE advertisement below, published in a metropolitan newspaper by one of America's outstanding advertising agencies, was called to our attention by an Atlanta business man. It is so sensible—so very much to the point—that we want to pass it on to the readers of The Atlanta Constitution.

Conditions in Georgia are sound! Practically every known business barometer indicates the greatest era of prosperity this section has ever known! The theoretical Jim Rurals, Joe Normals and all the young Jims and Susans and Marys are going to buy merchandise this fall—and so are all of their city cousins!

The wise merchants are the ones who go after business NOW—who advertise consistently in a courageous manner—who tackle their 1929 problems in a 1929 manner. To such merchants as these, The Atlanta Constitution offers a golden opportunity to make their advertising dollars PAY BIG DIVIDENDS.

All right Mister!—now that the headache's over LET'S GO TO WORK!

FOR the last few weeks a good part of business America has drifted away from the workbench to cock an excited eye at the biggest crap game the world has ever seen.

In fact, all too many of our amateur economists have taken literally the engaging admonition: "Reach for a Lucky instead of a Sweat!"

The time comes when the best handler of the Rolling Dominoes cannot make another pass, and the arrival of that time is signaled by the crash through their margins of the finest bunch of industrial securities that ever declared an extra.

Well, that's that—and it's pretty well all over, except for an occasional bird who has lost everything but his ego, and who hurls himself from a high window with complete disregard for the busy people who are really going somewhere on the sidewalks below.

BUT—while they're clearing up the empties—let's not forget that Jim Rural, out on his place in Indiana, is figuring on a new corner crib and on tilling that east-forty of good bottom land.

Let's not forget that, same as ever, Joe Normal of Pretty Prairie is putting in a new lighting plant, which means the Missus soon will be wanting a Kohler bathtub, and all the fixings.

Let's not overlook the fact that all the young Jims and Joes and Susans and Marys are getting married as usual, and need household furnishings and installment accommodations for the afterglow.

Let's not forget that millions upon millions of regular folks throughout this grand, greatly-desiring, gorgeously-spending America, need power, heat, light, food, transportation, recreation and adornment, same as always.

THEY'LL go on wearing out Goodyear Tires, eating Post Toasties and drinking Maxwell House Coffee, buying new Buicks and Fords, just as before.

They'll go on walking a mile for a Camel, stepping out of the short skirts for the new long ones, moving into the suburbs for more air for the baby, taking an evening off for the talkies, in the future as in the past.

They'll go on dreaming, and earning, and buying—in that lavish fashion that has always characterized the shortest-memory and longest-confidenced people that ever lived.

They'll continue to constitute, for the man or manufacturer who deserves it, the BIGGEST, RICHEST, MOST RESPONSIVE MARKET IN THE WORLD!

THERE'S the picture, Mister, unraveled from the ticker tape—what do you say: Let's go to work!

If you make a product that people need or can be made to desire, dig in your Wingfoot Heels and let's go.

If you've got an advertising story in that product, tell it!—as often and as forcefully as the traffic will bear. Tell it straight and to the point—don't mumble about your earnestness or commercial probity; about these things buyers really don't care a dam!

If you haven't got a story in your product—if you cannot offer an advantage in price, purity, utility, quality, style or value—better get busy and get one, or make room for the fellow who has.

The big business next year is going to the outfit that deserves it, and that keeps pounding on the reasons for deserving it with all the steam it can boil.

REGARDING the securities market — let the other fellow worry about that.

If you're holding some good stocks at a loss, put 'em away and let 'em age in the wood—they'll be mellow and sweet with a bead on, a year or so from now.

If you've got some cash you don't know what to do with, buy good stocks—that's what John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is doing, and you're probably no smarter than he is.

The main thing is, now that the parade is over, let's get back to the store!

THAT'S our program, bull market or bear, and we're still making sales gains for our customers.

Our own business is going ahead at a rate millions-of-dollars in advance of anything we have experienced before.

We think the reason is, that we're doing our daily dozen over the sales sheets and the typewriter and the drawing board, instead of on the fairway or across the mignon aux fines herbes.

We're continuing to place generous schedules for next year with the quaint point of view not of putting so-much-money out, but of getting so-much-more back in sales for the advertisers we serve.

We're grateful for a lot of recent new business, too, but we still have room for a few choice ones with the quota-busting spirit.

If you feel that way for 1930, and are ready to do something about it, we'll be glad to have you give us a call!

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.
Music by the late Victor Herbert, sung by Olive Kline, soprano, and Allen McQuibban, tenor, and played by a symphonic ensemble directed by Adrian Schubert, will be the special feature of the General Motors Family Party, with Frigidaria as host, this evening at 8:30 o'clock over WSB and the N. B. C. network. Both the singers and the orchestral director were selected for this General Motors broadcast because of their special familiarity not only with the music of the great Irish-American composer but because of their personal acquaintance with the ideas he endeavored to express in his songs.

Miss Kline has been heard in General Motors Family Parties to such an extent that she has been called the family's most intimate friend. Adrian Schubert, who will direct the orchestral portion of the program, is also an old friend of the family. Allen McQuibban, Irish tenor, has the distinction of singing 21 successive radio recitals in a single season.

The Troubadour trio, male vocalists, introduced when the Troubadour's program is broadcast through WSB and the N. B. C. system this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The trio, a tenor soloist and an orchestra under the direction of S. C. Lanin present the following program:

Orchestra—"Thou Swell."
Vocal Trio—"S Wonderful," "Pretty Little Girl."
Orchestra—"Tip-Too Through the Tulips," "Rag Doll," "The Woman in the Shoe."
Orchestra—"Ain't Misbehavin'."
Tenor Solo—"Pagan Love Song."
Orchestra—"Lucky Me, Loveable You."
Orchestra—"Happy Days Are Here Again."
Tenor Solo—"Don't Hang Your Dreams on a Rainbow."
Orchestra—"Song of the Moonbeams."
Vocal Trio—"Lady Luck."
Orchestra—"Singing in the Bathub."

William Robyn, who once toured the country in vaudeville as "Wolf Scarpiott—the Russian Boy Wonder," will be the featured singer when Robyn and His Gang broadcast through WSB and the N. B. C. system this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Robyn came to this country from Latvia 15 years ago when he was 16. While peddling woolen underwear among the miners of Pennsylvania he met a salesman who introduced him to a vocal teacher, Jerome Hayes. The latter taught the youth free of charge and Mrs. Hayes taught him elocution and languages. He has been heard in vaudeville and in concert, one engagement being at Carnegie hall.

M'MANUS TRIAL MAY BE DELAYED UNTIL FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(P)—Although the trial of George A. McManus on a charge of murdering Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler, will get under way again tomorrow, the possibility appeared tonight that no new evidence would be heard until next Friday.

The possibility hinged upon whether Judge Nott will excuse Eugene A. Riker, a juror who reported illness after adjournment last Friday. Riker was reported to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown, and at a conference prosecution and defense attorneys signified their willingness to excuse him and select another juror.

If the judge excuses Riker, the procedure probably will be to call a new panel, select a juror and read to him the record of the trial to date. The time necessary for this, together with the Thanksgiving holiday, was expected to delay the progress of the trial until about Friday.

STERILIZATION NOT SURE CURE FOR DEFECTIVES

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(P)—Sterilization of mental defectives would not eliminate all mental deficiency, according to the report of Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the department of education, on the "Health of the School Child."

While mental defectives tend to produce mentally defective offspring, he said, the great majority of mentally defective children are not directly the offspring of mentally defective parents. Doubtless a limited number of individual cases would benefit by sterilization. Sterilization, complete segregation, or even a moderate remedial measure or marriage, if they were to be nationally effective as preventive measures, should be applied to the whole mentally subnormal group, but this he termed impracticable.

BLANK CARTRIDGE EXPLODES; YOUTH LIKELY TO LOSE EYE

Firing a blank cartridge with a hammer Sunday afternoon probably will cost John DeJournette, 19, of 1112 Buford avenue, the sight of his right eye, surgeons at Grady hospital said late last night.

While visiting at the home of a friend, Orman Thompson, of a Kendall street address, the youth struck one of the miniature explosives with the hammer, causing the cap to fly in his eye, he said. Doctors reported the eyeball was ruptured.

NATION TO HONOR BODIES OF HEROES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(P)—Impressive honors have been ordered by the war department for the arrival in New York of the bodies of 75 soldiers of the 339th infantry who died while in service in north Russia after the World War.

The bodies were sent from Cherbourg on the steamship President Roosevelt November 19 and are being escorted by Captain Edwin S. Bettsheim, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Walter Dundon, representing the Polar Bear Association and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The President Roosevelt will be met off Ambrose Light, the entrance to New York harbor, by a cruiser and

Seats for Passion Play Go on Sale This Morning

Seats for the seven performances of the Freiburg Passion Play, to be given by a cast of 500 people at the auditorium during the week of December 9, will be placed on sale at 9 o'clock this morning at the box office of the Cable Piano Company.

S. Russell Bridges, president of the Southern Musical Bureau, local managers for the engagement, announced that the seat sale had been opened two weeks in advance of the performance, because of the heavy demand from out-of-town people. In almost all towns and cities of north Georgia and many in the Carolinas, churches and other organizations are arranging groups to come to Atlanta during the week of presentations of the tremendous divine drama and Mr. Bridges felt that, with the mail order demands so heavy, local people should be given an equal opportunity to secure the seats they desire for the event.

Enrico Leide, directing the great local chorus which will sing the choral music for which the Passion Play is famous, announced Sunday that many excellent singers already have responded to the call for voices. He hopes, however, to present a well-trained choir of at least 200 for the opening night and has a number of places still open for sopranos, altos, tenors and bass-baritones. Singers who desire to enjoy the experience of singing in this unique production should communicate with Mr. Leide at his office in the Metropolitan building.

The Freiburg Passion Play has been given in Europe ever since 1268 and the cast which is coming here, headed by three members of the famous Fassnacht family, is composed of people who have devoted their lives to the sacred roles they have inherited from their ancestors for many generations.

The scenic production in Atlanta will be a feature of the seven performances, the auditorium stage having to be enlarged by extra platforms to care for several of the sets.

The play will be given here just as it has been for almost seven centuries, with the exception that it will be spoken in English instead of the original German. There will be a performance each night of the week of December 9, with a special matinee for children on Saturday.

SWERVES AUTO TO SAVE CHILD
AND IS KILLED

MEIGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—(P)—The quick swerve of an automobile saved a child from probable death or serious injury here today, but Robert Pollard, 40, was killed as the machine careened and struck a tree.

The car was driven by a Mr. Anderson, who cut the wheel sharply as the child ran into the street. Pollard was thrown out by the impact when the automobile struck the tree and his skull fractured and hip broken. He died within a few minutes.

Anderson was not badly hurt.

Less Gas—More Heat— with NATURAL GAS

To get heat—is the sole reason for obtaining and using fuel.

Natural Gas is a fuel which provides a great amount of heat for the quantity used. Less Natural Gas is needed to get the same amount of heat—for that reason its cost to the consumer is less than manufactured gas.

The price of any commodity or service must fully cover all costs of supplying it to the consumer. The bringing of Natural Gas across hundreds of miles to Atlanta and supplying her citizens with this greatly valued fuel, has required the operation of vast machinery and the employment of thousands of men for months and compelled the investment of millions of dollars.

But this is possible—and Natural Gas, with its value for the homes, business establishments and industries can be provided in Atlanta—because a certain quantity furnishes such a great amount of heat.

The success of the whole project depends upon its having such value to the consumer that Natural Gas will be used. In this our interests with the consumer are mutual.

Independent Implement Co. Shows Improved Machines

On the walls of the Almand Implement Company of 1009-11 Marietta street is a very large wall map, and on it is the anatomy of a cow. The illustrations on the map show the reasons why ground feed is so much more beneficial to the cow and other stock than rough feed. With it there are some government figures showing that ordinary hay to feed five cows would feed seven cows if it was ground.

When the average business man or a manufacturer is shown, where he can save over 20 per cent usually he makes the changes necessary to put this saving into effect. The Almand Implement Company presents to the farmers and stock men at this time in their Papec feed grinder a grinding machine that will not only save the difference in the hay figures but will grind everything a cow will eat and make palatable feeds out of the roughest growing roughage. If a farmer or dairyman had one of these feed machines in his barn he could save another 20 per cent by grinding the waste broom straw or cane that grows so abundant in this part of the country.

In the Papec grinder the feed rollers not only draw the roughage into the mill but they hold it as it advances against the hammers in such a way that the ends are shredded as fast as they feed in. The first blow of the hammers does the business. Little or no grinding is needed after the fodder is first broken from the stalk at the feed rollers. In grinding roughage the feed rollers are of great advantage. It is impossible for the hammers to jerk into the grinding chamber great wads of material which would choke the machine.

Papec feed rollers insure an even distribution of material as it enters the grinding chamber. The mill is geared to run 2,000 revolutions a minute and in the change of gears a high or low speed can be had at the will of the operator. The hopper may be dumped full of grain and the machine is governor controlled it will permit the rough feed to flow into it as fast as your power will take it—no faster.

The governor not only protects grinders from overloading, but guarantees a maximum limit of your power. Some commercial feed grinders using this machine grind as much as 4,000 pounds an hour.

The Almand Implement Company is one of the few independent companies in this part of the country, and in the large salesrooms and warehouse has plows, harrows, cultivators, weedeaters, cotton choppers, farm tools, grain drills, dairy supplies, milk cans and bottles, barrel churns, dairy wash vats, cream separators, cow stalls, barn equipment, hay carriers, Papec silo fillers, pea hullers, log saws, saw engines, cider mills, dusters, cotton dusters, wagons, harness, trailer wagons, binder twine, field and lawn fence, steel fence posts, fence gates, mower parts.

The general manager, B. F. Almand, has been identified with the implement and dairy supply business for more than 20 years and knows what the farmers and dairymen need and at the same time he has always investigated the merits of any new or improved piece that would be of advantage to his customers before he recommends its use.

MIDDLE OF WEEK SAW COTTON PEAK

BY GEORGE W. POOSHE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)

Cotton, during the first half of the week just ended, continued the upward movement, begun during the preceding week, and it had established a net recovery of slightly more than $5 per bale from recent lows. Shorts covered freely and there was considerable replacement buying, while merchants and spinners contributed to the upturn by lifting outstanding hedges and by fixing prices on call purchases. At times foreign textile interests were particularly good buyers, some houses with connections abroad reporting the best buying from that source for at least six months.

Lowering of the rediscount rate by the Bank of England, flotation by Japan of a loan of $50,000,000 in England and the United States, the better tone in the securities market, the most hopeful feeling regarding the business outlook engendered by the conferences between President Hoover and leading business and financial interests, plentifulness of funds at relatively low rates, better demand for actual cotton at rising prices, further sharp falling off in the movement of the crop and the temporarily oversold condition of the market were all contributing factors in the upturn.

The advance, however, failed to bring appreciable increase in either trade or speculative buying. On the contrary hedge selling from the south became somewhat heavier while there was free liquidation by longs in December in preparation for first notice day on that option tomorrow (Monday). Under this pressure, as well as renewal of selling by professional shorts who had covered, the market lost substantial portion of the earlier improvement and wound up at prices little changed from those at the end of the previous week.

The heavy offerings in December by speculative longs, who either sold outright or transferred to distant months, were absorbed by spot interests and differences without appreciable change in prices which led to the impression that notices, even if the entire certificated stock of about 88,000 bales should be tendered, would not exert much, if any, depressing influence on prices. The certificated stock here is regarded as quite ample from the standpoint of both quality and price, and there is a suggestion that some of it may be taken up by interests other than those putting out notices. In that event, the response of the market, it is felt, would be prompt and decisive.

Business in actual cotton stock reached 181,000 bales in ten consecutive centers against 160,000 during the preceding ones. This turnover was smaller than the same week last year, 200,000, but it was measurably ahead of last year's 153,000. Moreover, it was transacted on a steadily advancing basis, thus indicating that buyers, whether merchants or spinners, are on the defensive. Average advance in official southern quotations, covering 7-8 inch, was 11 points against an advance of only 5 points in December and 7 points in January, New York, the principal basing month.

Both domestic and foreign spinners hesitated about placing orders at the high basis asked but it is quite apparent from the volume of transactions that they bought on a larger scale than recently. This is particularly true of the foreign continent. The latter are far behind in their purchases compared with last year, as evidenced by the deficit of some 300,000 bales in import and of about 400,000 bales in takings of American cotton thus far this season compared with this date a year ago. Thus, while they are using Indian cotton on a larger scale than the previous season, it is felt that they have a

Cold Snap Proves Value Of Metal Weather Strips

The weather at this time of the year proves the value of weather strips. The home and other buildings that have good weather strips around all doors and windows are sure to be comfortable with little heat, whereas it takes much heat to overcome the abundance of cold air that comes in around loose-fitting windows and doors.

Eminent authorities have given out figures citing that good metal weather strips will save between 25 and 30 per cent of a winter's fuel in the home. The spring and summer months, the manufacturers of all metal weather strips present more figures of what they will save in the extra cleaning of curtains and draperies. The chance of taking a winter must also be considered. No one can compute what a cold will cost—some may be relieved by spending a dime, others by spending several dollars while to others a mild cold may develop into something very serious.

Numetal weather strips are claimed by their makers, the Mackinburg Strips Co., of Mackinburg, Pa., to be among the most modern and practical type of permanent weather strips. They are made of a soft, malleable metal which will take care of all shrinkage

Cotton Prices Continue On Upgrade During Week

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—While the cotton market was probably not quite as active during the past week as during the weeks immediately preceding, it has been influenced mostly by developments in connection with the cotton trade itself in contrast to being dominated by the fluctuations in the stock market, as was the case in the two weeks immediately preceding.

The unfavorable weather in the belt, so far as the growing season is concerned, has been expected, and the liquidation of the December position in advance of the first notice day for that month, which will be Monday, November 29, were the dominating influences. The recovery in stocks last week and the expectation of smaller gains in the week ending November 27, were also factors. The market was in a state of uncertainty, but by outsiders. As a result prices early in the week continued on the upgrade and on Wednesday January 23, the market advanced to a new high of $15.40 a bale above the price touched just a week earlier.

When the spinning report was issued showing a total ginned crop of November 14 of 11,398,308 running bales, the first effect on the market was bullish, but there soon followed rather great deal of American cotton still to buy.

Spinners Ahead. American spinners are about 212,000 bales ahead of last year in their taking and they are somewhat supplied with raw material than at that time. They are therefore in position to proceed more leisurely than their foreign competitors in the matter of buying, but it is conceded that they still have large purchases to make. In the meantime owners are growing more independent and are asking and by their refusal to sell when bids are not to their liking. Decrease in the co-operative are rapidly increasing and much of the cotton received by them is being withheld from the market. The almost complete stoppage of picking and ginning incident to decidedly unfavorable weather, is also resulting in marked contraction in offerings from first hands.

Rain or snow has fallen in practically every part of the south during the past few days and grade of unpicked cotton has been severely lowered. Open cotton, too, has suffered some quantitative loss and it is now decidedly questionable whether the crop will reach the last government estimate of 35,000,000 bales of 500 pounds each. As a matter of fact, considerable loss in production, however, has not yet been given much consideration for the reason that the majority of the trade are paying more attention to the likelihood of some decrease in consumption compared with the previous season as a result of the unfavorable effect on takings of American textiles in particular of the recent heavy shrinkage in security values. It is largely for this reason that the small increase in the price of cotton on November 13 induced so little trade or speculative demand.

Improved Demand. Reports are looking favorable centers in this country and Europe indicate some improvement in demand compared with the more recent average, but prices have not been satisfactory. As a matter of fact, considerable being made in some quarters and gross

BARNU COMPARES PRESENT TO 1926

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Wall Street now realizes fully that when the average price of fifty representative stocks was at a new high for all time as recently as the middle of September, it was living in a fool's paradise. Determined to recover its lost sanity, constructive Wall street is now asking "When did we get that way?"

The bull stock market that has just collapsed started in industrial shares in the summer of 1921, following a year and a half of war and postwar deflation. Starting on solid road foundation, the warranted bull stock market continued orderly and sane until the closing months of 1925, despite the period of unprecedented abundance of easy money and trade activity beginning in 1924. In the closing months of 1925, there was growing uneasiness over steadily increasing brokerage loans, which were feeding the bull stock market. In response to widespread agitation for corrective measures the federal reserve started early in 1926 to make weekly statements of brokers' loans. Up to that time, no official figures on outstanding brokers' loans had ever been made public. Even speculative Wall Street was startled when the federal reserve figures for the week ending January 6, 1926, covering loans made by member banks in this federal reserve district on stock exchange collateral for their own account, for the account of out-of-town banks and for the account of "others," meaning corporations and individuals, were given as $3,141,000,000. Not even speculative Wall Street had dreamed that the total was so large.

The bull stock market continued for the first three weeks of 1926, but the price movement very erratic. By the end of March the average price of stocks was down 30 points from the new high established early in the year. From the high of $3,141,000,000 at the beginning of 1926, brokers' loans, as a result of the violent liquidation in the stock market dropped $723,000,000 to $2,418,000,000 by the middle of May.

Same as 1926. Sentiment in Wall Street in the early spring of 1926 regarding the stock market and general trade was pretty much what it is today. In the early summer of that year, however, stock market sentiment almost overnight turned from optimistic to pessimistic. The reason for this was the leadership of General Motors. From its low for the year of 1925-26, General Motors advanced to 190 7/8 on Saturday, July 31, with the result the stock market following at a slow pace.

On Monday, August 2, Wall Street was amazed by a statement on the news tickers of a well-known banker, who had sailed for Europe late Saturday on the Olympic, as saying general business throughout the country is fine and should be plentiful and cheap. He added that he had made a careful analysis of General Motors; that the rise in General Motors had been very rapid the past week, "but it is more than justified by earnings, future prospects, and management of the corporation; that the stock was cheap at the price then prevailing (192 7/8) and it should and will sell at least 100 points higher."

Wall Street, on reading the foregoing rubbings, was to see if it were really amazed. Such a stock market statement had never before been given by a responsible Wall Street banker. For a day or two there was much uncertainty as to whether or not the banker had really said what he was quoted as saying. Stock market traders, however, concluded that whether or not he had said it, it sounded reasonable. Before a technical denial came by wireless, the middle of the week, General Motors touched 214 1/2 with the market going wild. On a technical denial there was some reaction, but it was not long before the bull stock market was again under way, with the banker's prediction more than making good.

Business Offers Merchants Modern Merchandizing Aid

Charles J. Williamson, for many years ready-to-wear and piece goods buyer for the old A. M. Robinson Company, is now established at 190 Pryor street, S. W., in the busy ready-to-wear, millinery and dry goods wholesale district of Atlanta.

Mr. Williamson is one of the south's leading authorities on modern merchandising and his views upon the best methods of displaying goods, advertising or promoting style shows, is often sought, not only by the retail merchants but the publishers of retail trade publications.

In his new store and salesrooms, Mr. Williamson has assembled an up-to-date line of the latest things in women's and children's ready-to-wear, women's and men's pajamas and bath robes. In the piece goods department everything is new and fresh and includes all the very latest patterns in all grades of cloth.

Mr. Williamson said Saturday, "In our new location it will be our policy to sell the very latest in dresses, coats and piece goods at the very lowest prices, for the experience of years has convinced us that the independent merchant of today in order to compete with the chain store must not only display his merchandise like them, but buy them as cheap. And in order to buy cheap the retailer must not over-buy and pay for long-time credit."

"The successful retailer of today is the one who buys often and keeps his stocks right up to times. In this way he does not have to carry over stocks that may be out of date in a few months, nor does he impair his money capital by having too much tied up in slow moving merchandise."

"To all those merchants who wish to put on some kind of a special sale we will gladly render service and advice in such matters and especially lend assistance in their advertising. We will do this free."

"Due to Atlanta's splendid geographical location," further stated Mr. Williamson, "and its splendid overnight transportation facilities, any order sent to us by wire, phone or letter will be put in the mails, express or freight office the same day received, assuring the retail merchant in the Atlanta trading territory of receiving what he orders from us in from 24 to 48 hours. This will mean that any retailer that does not want to carry a large stock of goods, can carry a very limited assortment that he thinks best suited for his trade and draw on our larger and newer stocks as often as needed."

"We have an exceptional line of party dresses, women's fur-trimmed coats, rain coats that are very nice for Christmas and birthday presents."

Five Arkansans Are Jailed For Torture Death of Youth And Attack on Companion

Girl Victim's Mouth Sealed by Fear of Reprisal; Eye-Witness Corroborates Story.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Nov. 24. (AP)—The torture, mutilation and then burning alive of Connie Franklin, 20, a farm hand, and an assault upon his sweetheart on a lonely mountain road 14 miles east of here last March, came to light today with the arrest of five men indicted by the county grand jury, all on first degree murder charges and two of them on statutory charges.

The men are: Norman Greenway, Hubert Hester, Bill C. Younger, Alex Fulk and Joe White. Greenway and Hester are charged with criminal assault in addition to murder.

The grand jury has been investigating the slaying for months. Fear of reprisals which sealed the lips of the young woman, even when brought before officers and the grand jury, and later taken to Little Rock in the hope she would divulge information on which the grand jury could act, made the work of the jury difficult, according to District Attorney Hugh Williamson, of this district.

The young woman was quoted by Mr. Williamson as saying she and Franklin were walking along a road when five men accosted them. The men seized Franklin, she said, and beat and mutilated him. She said Franklin, overcome by the torture, fainting, and his assailants thinking him dead, built a fire and put his body on it. The body rolled off, she said, and they replenished the fire and placed the body on it again.

Failing to entirely destroy the body by the fire, the young woman was quoted as saying the men picked up a part of the remains, placed them in a sack and took them to a nearby stream.

Mr. Williamson also said the woman's testimony was substantiated by a written statement of a deaf mute boy, said to have witnessed the gruesome sight at a distance.

Hester and Younger were jailed at Newport, while Greenway and White are in jail at Batesville for safe keeping.

Officers declined to say where Fulk was jailed.

All are residents of the St. James community, 14 miles east of here, in the White river bottoms.

Franklin disappeared about March 10 and reports were made he had

He warned against overemphasis of the mechanics of religion in church organizations.

Marietta Group Approves Grady Square Proposal

Members of the Central Marietta Street Association, composed of the leading property owners along Marietta street, from Five Points to Spring street, have gone on record as enthusiastically endorsing the suggestion of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale that the intersection of Marietta and Forsyth streets be known as "Henry Grady Square."

At a meeting of the association which will be held Tuesday morning, it is expected that formal action will be taken and a committee appointed to go before the city council and urge the adoption of the name. It is pointed out by officials of the association that the contemplated designation would not change the names of any streets, nor affect street numbering in any respect. "Henry Grady Square" would be merely a designation of a particular locality, such as "Five Points."

About a week ago the suggestion of naming the intersection of Marietta and Forsyth streets, "Henry Grady Square" was advanced by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale. The suggestion has received hearty support, and Governor L. G. Hardman, characterizing it as an excellent one, urged that this honor be paid the illustrious Henry Grady.

"I look upon the movement with great favor," he declared. "I knew and loved Henry Grady. It would be most fitting if the city for which he did so much were to honor his memory by the establishment of 'Henry Grady Square.'"

Unable to sleep because of ill-effects of a recent operation, William Balfour, 55, of 218 South Boulevard, Sunday afternoon took a hypnotic. He took 240 grains of chloral by drate—an overdose—by mistake, and landed in the hospital again. Attendants at Grady last Sunday night said he would recover.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

UNC' BILLY HAS A FEAST.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who would be master of his fate in patient and content to wait.

—Unc' Billy Possum.

Unc' Billy Possum was safe and he knew it. He was on a beam underneath Farmer Brown's barn, safe from Flip. All Ah has to do now, said Unc' Billy to himself, "is to stay right here until that silly dog does grow tired of hearing his own voice. Then he'll go away and Ah'll do the same thing." This is just what happened. Flip did grow tired. He would leave Unc' Billy and go out to see if Farmer Brown's Boy was coming. Then he would go back and bark some more. Farmer Brown's Boy had no intention of crawling under that barn, so Unc' Billy curled up and took a nap and finally Flip gave up.

Unc' Billy was wise enough to remain right where he was all the rest of that day. Two or three times Flip came back to see if he was still there. He was, but he showed no signs of life so Flip speedily lost interest.

It was just after dark that Unc' Billy poked his sharp nose out from under the barn. A sharp, shrewd little face was Unc' Billy Possum. Unc' Billy looked this way and that way. He saw no one and he was sure that no one saw him. He stole along up to the door that the cows used. It was ajar. He poked his nose inside and pushed it open a little more. Then he slipped wholly inside. Unc' Billy grinned. It was a long time since yesterday. He made his way along the stairs that led up to the hay-mow. He went up. He knew he was safe now. He knew that he could hide under that hay anywhere. He didn't have the least bit of worry about being caught now.

"Ah wonder if any of those hens lay eggs up in here now," thought Unc' Billy. "Ah reckon Ah'll have a good look anyhow." Mah goodness, wouldn't Ah like some nice nice eggs?

Now, it happened that one of Farmer Brown's pullets was laying up in the haymow and Farmer Brown's Boy didn't know it. No, sir, he hadn't discovered that that pullet was slipping every day when the hens were let out in the yard. But that is what she was doing. In the hay up in a corner of the mow she had already laid seven nice eggs. Unc'

Billy found them. You should have seen the grin on the old rascal's face when he discovered those seven eggs.

It was the best dinner he had had for a long time and he was perfectly happy.

He couldn't think of a single thing that he wanted more than he wanted eggs. He wouldn't have traded those eggs for a fast chicken, and that is saying a good deal. So it was that up there in the haymow Unc' Billy Possum had a feast. Yes, sir, he had a feast. It was the best dinner he had had for a long time and he was perfectly happy.

It didn't occur to Unc' Billy that he was stealing those eggs. To his mind, he wasn't stealing them at all. He felt that they were his by right because he was smart enough to find them. So his conscience didn't trouble him the least bit when he ate those seven eggs. But, having eaten the eggs, he suddenly decided that, in spite of the fact that he had slept all day, he would take another nap. He had too full a stomach to be traveling around. So he poked around in the hay until he finally found just the place that suited him and then he curled up there.

"Ah reckon this would be a good place to spend the winter," muttered Unc' Billy. "Yes, sah, Ah reckon this would be a good place to spend the winter." (Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution.)

Urological Body Names Dr. Boyd To Membership

Dr. Montague L. Boyd, head of the urological department of Emory University Medical school, has been selected as a member of the International Urological Society, according to advices received at the university.

This is considered the highest honor that could be paid a physician engaged in Dr. Boyd's specialty, as there are only about 30 members of the society in the entire United States, the announcement states. It is composed of the leading urologists throughout the world. Membership is attained only through recommendation of a committee within the association which decides the matter on the scientific attainments of the proposed member.

Dr. Boyd is a native of Savannah, but has practiced medicine in Atlanta since 1911. He is a graduate of Emory and also of Johns Hopkins University, where he was assistant to Dr. Hugh H. Young, in charge of the urological department of that institution, and rated among medical men as one of the world's outstanding urologists. In addition to his practice, Dr. Boyd heads the urological departments at Emory University Medical school, Wesley Memorial hospital, Piedmont hospital, and the Steiner clinic at Grady hospital.

Following the announcement of his election to membership in the International Urological Society, Dr. Boyd stated that he would attend the international conference of this body which will be held in Madrid in April, 1930.

MANY AT MUSEUM FOR ART LECTURE OF SPAIN RETURNS HOME AFTER EXILE

Approximately 150 Atlantans attended the lecture on Gesso, an Italian painting medium, given Sunday afternoon at the High Museum of Art by Director L. Palmer Skidmore.

In addition to hearing Mr. Skidmore's fascinating history of one of the most known art mediums, the museum visitors were privileged with a gallery tour of the magnificent exhibition of oil paintings from the brush of Whitney Hubbard, one of America's greatest modern-day painters, which now is showing at the local museum and will continue there until December 1.

The attendance at the museum is showing a steady increase, not only on Sundays, but throughout the week and officials of the Atlanta Art Association Sunday expressed themselves as delighted at the evident increase in the local appreciation for the best in art, which the museum brings each season.

The museum is open, free to the public, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. every day and from 2 to 5 p. m. on Sundays, while it is kept open until 10 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

DR. LYONS LAUDS WOMEN'S GROUPS IN HOMEMAKING

The Rev. J. Sproule Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his Sunday morning sermon paid a glowing tribute to the work of women's clubs. He spoke upon the American home and the return to the old-fashioned ways of life, voicing the opinion that women's clubs are doing a great work and that it is largely through their efforts that American people are gradually going back to home life and true domesticity.

MADRID, Nov. 24.—(AP)—After months' imprisonment aboard the gunboat Dato at Valencia, Jose Sanchez Guerra, former liberal premier of Spain, was home tonight with his family, awaiting trial before the supreme court-martial here.

Senior Sanchez Guerra recently was tried by a court-martial on a charge of attempting to incite a military rebellion last January. The authorities failed to approve the verdict of the first court and he must report every 48 hours to an official of the supreme court while awaiting another trial.

The former premier received visits today from close friends but declined interviews. He seemed to be attempting to avoid publicity, public appearances and political expressions pending his new trial.

FOLLERIN' THE BAND

WHO hasn't "follered" the band on Main street, or up Broadway or Michigan boulevard? Heart pumping joyously, feet beating the ground in time! Grandly intoxicating moment of childhood!

And later in life—who hasn't felt a thrill as the conductor lifted his baton for the overture to begin? A moment pregnant with the glamour of the theatre! Music casts its spell throughout all the Ages of Man.

Is it wise then, in this enlightened and prosperous day to content substitution of a shadow of music for the real thing in the theatre?

Imagine the Irish, following a

Music Box on St. Patrick's Day! Or life and drum music by a Machine on Memorial Day! Incongruous? Of course, but not more so than a mechanical overture in the theatre.

Talking pictures—a new dramatic form; the radio—which transmits music directly and DOES reflect the artist's mood of the moment; the phonograph in the home—where living music usually is not available—are not at issue here. We are discussing only the SUBSTITUTION OF MECHANICAL MUSIC FOR REAL MUSIC IN THE THEATRE, in consequence of which Real Music is being eliminated in theatres.

THE GUMPS—QUESTIONS

Housebroken
BY PAUL HERVEY FOX

SYNOPSIS.
Tom Davies, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last game. After the battle Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to escort a girl who'd been asked down to the college for him. Bruce explains that he wishes to avoid meeting one of the chaperons. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him. She tells Tom that she is engaged to marry a friend of her father's. After she leaves, Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets Suzanne in New York. Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man when she and Tom realize they love each other, and Suzanne invites Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for commencement.

After graduation Tom's father gives him a small house in Stamford as a wedding present. Suzanne and Tom are married in November, and for the first few months are perfectly happy. One day Tom stays in town to have dinner with some college friends and on his return Suzanne upbraids him. The storm blows over, and a few weeks later he promises to attend a prizefight with some of the boys. Suzanne creates such a scene that Tom gives up the idea.

About a year after their marriage Bruce Stevens returns from a trip to the Orient. Tom is delighted to see him. He asks Bruce to occupy the guest room at their house. Suzanne and Tom suspect the Orient tale. When Bruce tells Tom he will have to stay in town, Tom asks him to stay at Stamford. Then Suzanne becomes cordial to Bruce and later starts a flirtation with him. Bruce realizes that it is all pretense and is done to get rid of him and his influence. By making Tom jealous, Bruce confides this to Tom and offers to help him, and together they arrange a plan.

Tom comes home one evening to find Suzanne in Bruce's room. She tells him that she and Suzanne love each other and he is going to take her away with him to his camp in Maine. Tom agrees to let her go, and Suzanne is heartbroken. She calls up her friend, Kathleen Mohr, and asks her to go to Maine with them.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE DEPARTURE.

Kathleen was amazed at Suzanne's revelation that she was going away with Bruce Stevens.

"Well, I—of course, there's nothing that I—"

"Please! You don't know what this means to me. I—I can't begin to tell you. But you've got to come with me! You've got to be with me all the time. He'll—he'll just be near us."

"O—"

"You'll come, Kathleen. Please—I do need help so terribly."

"Well, I don't understand very well yet, but—"

"How soon could you be ready?"

"O, you know how I feel. It never takes me any time at all."

"Put some things in a bag. Come over right away. Come right up to my room. I'll wait here. And thank you—you'll never know how grateful I am for this."

She put down the receiver with shaking fingers. Then she began to pack, hurriedly, scarcely knowing what it was she was throwing pell-mell into Tom's big telescope bag.

The instant that Suzanne had run up the cellar stairs Bruce had sprung forward, caught Tom by the shoulders, and looked at him admiringly.

"Boy! I didn't know you had it in you! You were perfect—perfect! I was afraid you'd let me down, and, holy smoke! you were better than I was! You were great—frowning. 'Look here, I can't go through with this. I feel rotten about it. I tell you I never thought I could play a dirty trick like that. I—I've got to see her.'"

Tom was frowning. "Look here, I can't go through with this. I feel rotten about it. I tell you I never thought I could play a dirty trick like that. I—I've got to see her."

"Are you going to be a fool? Are you going to let her heat you after all, because she cries? Why, women are always crying! It's the way they enjoy themselves. What's the matter with you, anyway?"

"I've made her miserable. I feel pretty rotten about it."

"So you want to give in and let her make you miserable the rest of your life? Why, I wouldn't put it beyond you to confess the whole thing to her. What a price she'd make you pay! But you seem to like it—perhaps you deserve to be housebroken!"

"O, don't worry," Tom muttered. "I'll go through with it, now I've gone this far. What do I have to do now?"

"I'll go up and tell her you've ordered me out of the house and I'm going to a hotel in town, where she can pick me up. All you have to do after that is sit tight and keep from forgiving her too quickly."

"A worried scowl crossed Tom's face. 'Look here, Bruce, you don't suppose, you don't think there's any possible chance that she'll really go off?'"

Bruce howled. "Don't be foolish! Wild horses couldn't drag her away with me! Only don't weaken, don't give in, don't get scared if she comes down with a hat on. Don't call her back if she starts for the gate. And then—insist on your rights. Get an evening's work to yourself. However, you're married to her—I can't live your life."

"You've made a pretty good attempt at it!"

"So long! Look me up at the club tomorrow and tell me how the battle fared!"

Bruce went up the stairs feeling very pleased with himself and his cleverness. He reflected it was a pity that he was so devoid of ambition.

In less than four minutes he came down from Suzanne's room with an altered air. He came upon Tom in the kitchen, leaning against the window sill, with folded arms.

Tom took one look at his face. "What's happened?" he demanded, hoarsely.

"She's going away—she's got that damn girl to come along!"

"What girl—what are you talking about?"

"That blonde friend of yours—you know—Kathleen something. She's got her to agree to go along. She's called our bluff!"

Tom looked horrified. "Well, listen, did you tell her it was all a fake; did you explain—"

"Of course I didn't. I told her I'd go!"

"What?"

"It was the only thing to do. You can't back out now. She'll be safe enough. Maybe that shack is still standing on the island, and—"

"Are you crazy?"

"Tom, if you give in, I tell you you'll never have a day of peace as long as you live! She's only going in the hope that you'll come after her. If you sit tight she'll come running back. She's just trying to put off the inevitable moment as long as she can. But I wouldn't be surprised if she jumped out of the car before we made 10 miles."

"What, car?"

"Yours, of course. What other car is there?"

"How will I get to the station?"

"Walk, of course."

"Bruce, I don't like this thing."

"You'll have to like it."

"And, see here, I'm not going to have any scandal!"

"There won't be any. That's why she's taking that girl along."

Tom hesitated for a moment. Then his resolution hardened. He felt less ready to forgive Suzanne than he had a moment ago. She was doing this only to hurt him. Bruce saw the change come over his face.

"Don't worry," he whispered now. "Leave it all to me. I said I'd see you through, and I'm going to."

The ring of the doorbell made them both jump.

Bruce turned expectantly. "There's that girl! I'm not supposed to be speaking to you. Besides I've got to get my grip. So long! You're a free man and you can do what you please tonight."

"But you're not going right now?"

"You can't go now! It's almost dark. The sooner we start the sooner I'll see her back."

"But what are you going to do?"

"Stick close to her until she gets sick of the sight of me. It's the only way."

Tom frowned. "Look here, you want to be careful not to overdo things. Of course, I know you and I are all right with each other. Don't think I don't trust you absolutely, because I do. But—"

"O, shut up. You don't deserve to be a bachelor—even for a week! But I'll save you in spite of yourself!"

The knowing young man pushed the swinging door open cautiously and waited for his room.

Some 10 minutes later Tom Davis, crouching low, stared behind the corner of a shade. The big touring car with Bruce at the wheel, Suzanne at his side, and Kathleen in the rear seat, slowly lumbered off.

DIVISION'S BIG GUNS AWAIT THANKSGIVING

UPSETS RESULT IN BIG CLASSICS
OF EAST, WEST

California, Yale, Knocked
Out of Race for National Title.

By Alan J. Gould.

Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The gridiron vaudeville moved along today, minus some of its hit-or-miss membership, but with the positions of several of the foremost college football units more strongly fortified than ever.

Notre Dame, Purdue and Texas Christian all added impressive victories to records that show neither defeat nor tie, but California, Yale and Detroit met reverses that represented distinct shocks to the advance dope.

The two big classics of east and west resulted in sensational upsets as Stanford wallowed the hitherto undefeated California Bears, 21 to 6, while Harvard's rugged forces beat Yale, 10 to 6, in a game that saw the Eli row, Albie Booth, close his sophomore year as more of a goat than a hero.

California's last game smeared the bright championships hopes of the Bears and left the Pacific coast conference race in a scrambled condition. California had beaten Southern California, which defeated Stanford, so that the "Big Three" of the far west now stands in something approximating a triple tie. St. Mary's remains the only unbeaten team on the Pacific coast.

At Cambridge, in sub-zero weather, Harvard closed an erratic campaign with a triumph over Yale especially satisfactory because the Crimson put on its winning spirit and the game was the entry of the much-feared Mr. Booth. Little Albie had the unusual experience of seeing two of his boots blocked, one an attempted dropkick, the other a punt.

After each mishap, Harvard scored and thereafter, except for a similar "break" in Yale's favor, put the shakies on their feet and the Eli offense. In this battle of blocked kicks Barry Wood, Harvard's star sophomore, outshone his little blue rival and the Crimson's shakiest back, Coach Knute Rockne, on his sick bed, will have the problem of replacing him to deal with other things in planning the drive against the Army for next Saturday in New York.

To make it a gala day for the state of Indiana, the Purdue Boilermakers celebrated their final appearance of the year by trouncing the University of Indiana, 32 to 0. Purdue thus closed its season with eight straight victories and a record that compares with those of the undefeated, including Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. Endicott Big Ten champions, the all-conquering Boilermakers have finished the greatest campaign in their history. The high-powered Purdue line, led by Captain Welch, Harmon and Yerich, beat Indiana, Chicago and Iowa by bigger margins than they have in other years. The Boilermakers' victory against Indiana, Notre Dame was able to do early in the season.

Perhaps the biggest upset yesterday was Detroit's domination of the hands of the Oregon Aggies, 14 to 7. Since early in 1927 the Titans, coached by Gus Dorais, had gone through 22 games without defeat and but a single tie. They were heavy favorites to beat the far westerners, who had lost at home to four out of five Pacific coast conference rivals. Apparently Oregon State needs a long trip to get at its best. The Aggies handed the New York University a surprise beating last year at the Yankee stadium and their latest cross-country conquest is a fit champion piece.

MAROONS TRIM HUSKIES.
On the other hand, Washington found the big trip no advantage whatever, being soundly thrashed by Chicago, 26 to 6, as a climax to the most disastrous season the Huskies ever have experienced. The margin of Chicago's victory came as a surprise after Washington had held Stanford and California each to single touchdowns.

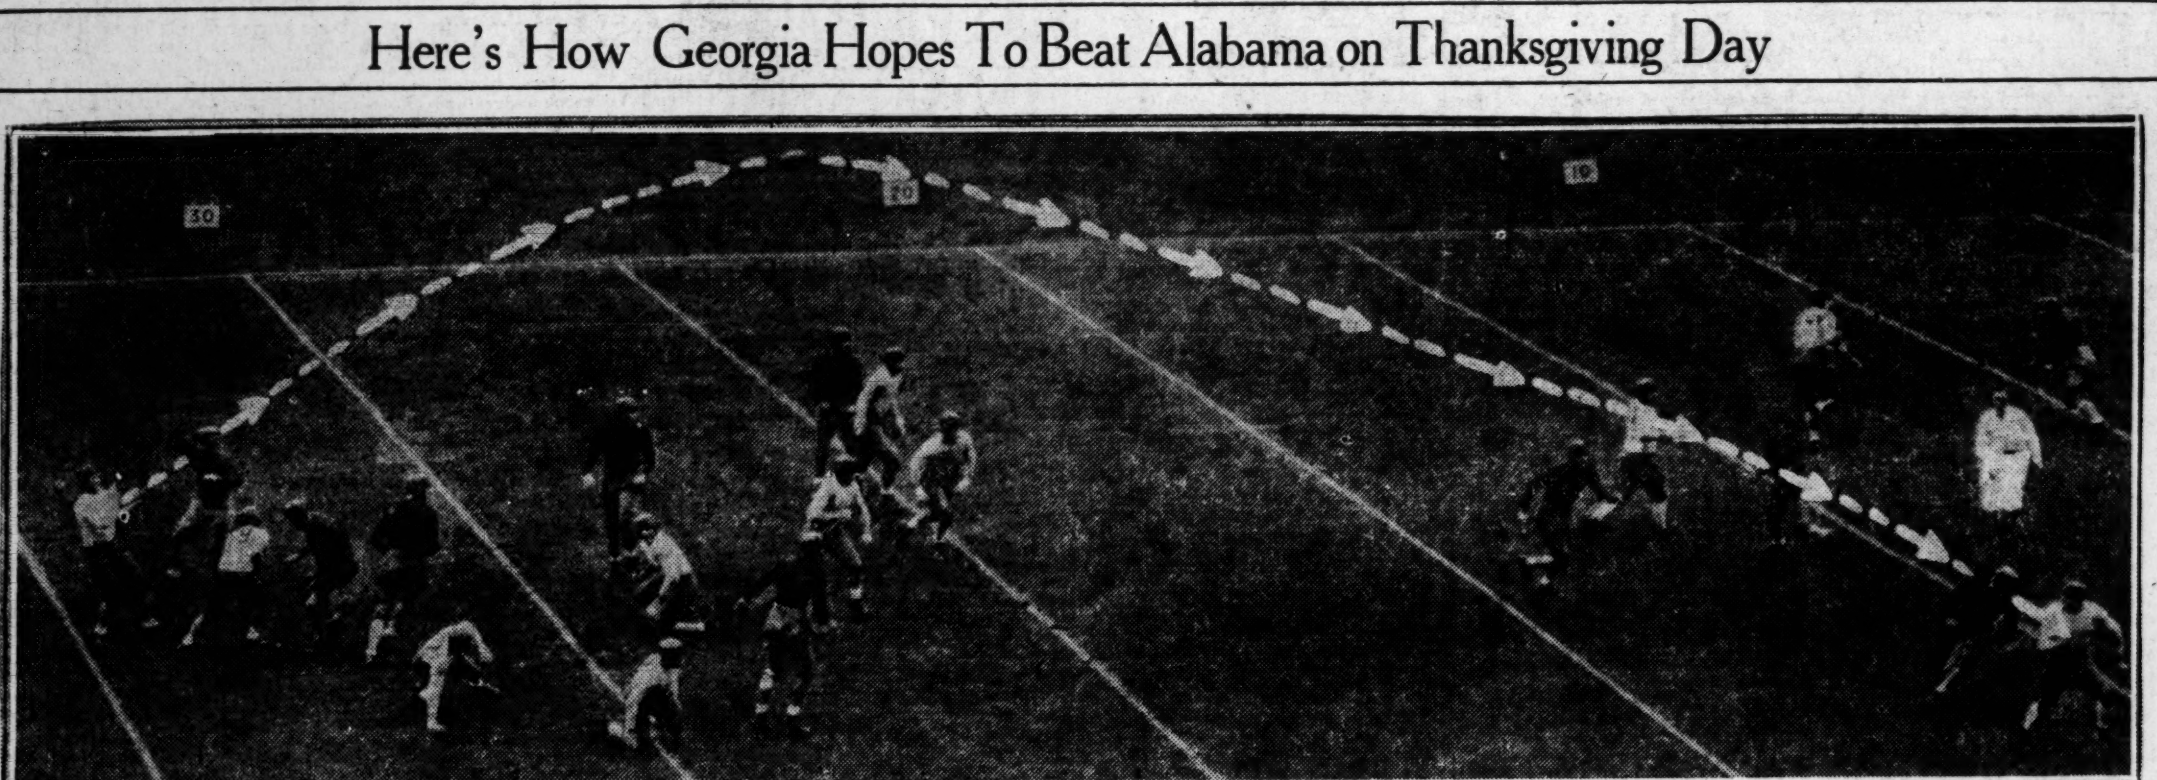

Texas Christian's Horned Toss, if they felt any ill effects from the reported epidemic of "flu" in the squad, did not show it in walling the Baylor Bears, 34 to 7. The Frogs appeared in perfect health and now dominate the Southwestern conference race, with Southern Methodist to be met next Saturday in the decisive engagement. S. M. U. trimmed Rice by 10 to 0 yesterday.

Nebraska, with a 10-to-6 victory over the Kansas Aggies, just about clinched the Big Six championship again, while Missouri was disposing of its old rival, Kansas, 7 to 0.

FORDHAM WINS AGAIN.
In the east, Fordham's rugged eleven repulsed the Bucknell Bison, 14 to 0, to maintain one of the few remaining unbeaten slates. The Maroon, however, has been tied twice.

Intercollegiate it was a big day along the Atlantic seaboard, for Army's regular beat Ohio Wesleyan, 19 to 6. Villanova, downed North Carolina State, 24 to 6; Temple defeated Drake, 16 to 14, and Duquesne turned back the Haskell Indians, 7 to 6. The Navy handled West Virginia Wesleyan a broadside, 30 to 6, and Lehigh turned the tables on Lafayette, 13 to 12, for the first time in 10 years.

Florida beat South Carolina, 20 to 7, in the only Southern conference game of the day, the leaders, Tennessee and Tulane, taking a rest in preparation for Thanksgiving Day tests.

Above is depicted the famous Georgia pass which helped beat Yale 15 to 0 and which was used to score the winning touchdown against North Carolina. It is the pass with which Georgia hopes to score on Alabama Thanksgiving Day at Birmingham. The game is one of the features of the November games and a great crowd is expected to follow the Georgians to the Slag City. The game will be the last of the year for the Bulldogs before the Tech game on December 7 on Sanford field at Athens.

Jackets, Tigers Renew
Old War Thanksgiving

Auburn Warriors Slated To Cause Tech
Plenty of Trouble in Annual Battle Here.

By Herb Clark.

Our good friend, old George Q. Tradition, is in a nervous state of mind. George Q. is about to risk his life and refuses to be convinced that he is taking anything but a 100-to-1 chance, and that with the odds against him.

George Q., who has nominated Georgia Tech as the winner of the age-old Thanksgiving Day clash with Auburn, is in the w. k. "tough spot."

Auburn, long just Auburn, or a rather toothless Tiger, is convalescing rapidly. Auburn is assuming the rights it enjoyed in the days beyond the scope of George Q. Tradition's memory. If George could remember Addison Sims, of Seattle, he might recall that Auburn earned the "Husky" and the "Tiger" back in the early days, and that the sobriquets were deserved for some time. But George has allowed the more immediate past to color his judgment.

DIFFERENT NOW.
Last year the Tiger was made to mince tamely at the end of a leash. Last year George Q., picking Tech, was vindicated by a vote of 51 to 0.

But last year is last year. This year all has changed. This year finds Tech's leash badly frayed. And, too, it finds the Tiger, after a visit to the consulting room, all decked out with a net set of teeth which are just beginning to feel right. The Tiger is anxious to try the new cusps and molars, and finds Tech next on the list. And good old George Q., who has staked his all, is worried.

The Tigers have been revitalized by one John (Red) Floyd. Floyd is by no stretch of the imagination a tamer of animals. In fact, having taken over a Tiger which has been starved to a leanness making each day of abstinence from victory a torment, Floyd has teased it, humored it and made the beast a dangerous thing to have about.

BATTERED JACKETS.
Now, at Tech, such hopes have been rudely proven false this season. Battered about by tidal waves, cracked over the head by shillalaws, stomped by vicious heels, taken for steamboat rides, the Yellow Jackets are about to be subjected to the experience of finding a set of claws in their vitals.

Coach Floyd has spent the past week in sharpening the claws of his Tiger. Scrimmages have sent his charges bounding away on offense and smashing into the formations with which Tech is expected to attack. And the Tiger has borne the burden well, showing improvement at all times in the practices.

At the Flats The Man is working overtime in an effort to break the spirit of defeat which has held his Jackets deep in despond since the Florida game. Here, too, scrimmages have been the order of the day. The Jackets have spent most of their time in polishing their offense with a view to shaking the fleet backs in the Jacket stable loose when the Tigers appear here.

NOT NEGLECTED.
Defense, however, has not been neglected. The Jackets have turned the ball over to their opponents, either the Gray Devils or the freshmen, and tried their collective hand at stopping a fast-stepping bunch of backs.

The Gray Devils have used the Auburn plays. Both these Tiger maneuvers and the yearling formations have been halted before real damage was done, but both sets of plays have gained enough ground to keep Coach Bill Alexander well stocked with material for a bit of odd-coach worrying.

Three days of practice remain in which to complete the preparations for the game. Then, with a bit of turkey to sustain him, George Q. Tradition will sail forth to see just how he is to fare.

Javelot Is Winner
Of Rich French Race

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Vicente de Rivaud's Javelot the Second, by Durbar, out of Julia Nelson, ran away from the field to win the Prix Richemont-Hennessy, at Auteuil today. The race, a steeplechase over a 3,500 meter course, was worth $2,000 francs to the winner.

By Ed Danforth

Swiftly the football season is slipping away. One more big round of games, a post-season scuffle or two and the heroes will hang up their halos.

The only issue in the conference championship race is whether Tennessee will share a perfect record with Tulane by defeating Kentucky Thanksgiving, or whether Kentucky will "win" the championship for Tulane by licking Tennessee.

All the familiar figures in the race have skidded into the ditch in the furious campaign that is all but finished. Georgia Tech, Georgia, Vanderbilt, Alabama, North Carolina, Florida, Clemson, Kentucky—all mentioned at various times as possible champions—are out of it. These will stage their annual Thanksgiving Day and post-season games with nothing but natural rivalry to spike the occasion.

GEORGIA AND TECH BUSY.
Georgia is working desperately to get their best offense going for the game with Alabama in Birmingham Thursday while Georgia Tech is striving manfully to get some horsepower into their attack for the Auburn game.

The main issue for Tech and Georgia, of course, is the big muss in the new stadium at Athens December 7. Both Georgia and Tech hope to win their Thanksgiving Day games; a defeat for either would unload a lot of grief that would have to be shouldered in the post-season engagement.

If both Tech and Georgia win, the Athens encounter will be an old-fashioned blood-and-thunder game with both parties striving to snatch another victory from a season heavy with defeats. And as for that, win or lose Thursday, it will be that sort of game.

"KING DAVID" MOREY.
News of "King David" Morey, former head coach at Auburn, under whose regime the troubles of the Plainsmen set in. The following clipping from the Hartford Courant tells the story:

"The best football story of the year has Dave Morey, Bates mentor, as its hero. It might be titled 'The Coach Who Came Back.'"

"Morey, an all-American back at Dartmouth, became known as the best one-man coach in the country at Middlebury college a few years ago. His teams were successful. Middlebury tied Harvard and played other big universities. He lifted it from the slough of football despond to the heights for a small college."

"Then his wife's health forced him to resign from Middlebury and seek a berth in some warm climate. He located at Auburn, way down in Alabama. In his first year down there Dave scalped Vanderbilt. In his second year he resigned because the college split into two factions, each trying to control its athletic policy and Morey refused to play with either faction."

"Morey returned to his home at Oak Bluffs, the summer vacation land on Martha's Vineyard. He was an applicant for a football job at Trinity but did not get much consideration. Whispers of what had happened at Auburn—and the whispers put Morey in a bad light—kept him from other jobs. But Frank Kavanaugh, at Fordham, who coached Dave when he was a collegian at Dartmouth, took him on as assistant coach for the Maroon."

"Later came an opening at Bates. Few wanted the job. Bates has been rather a hopeless case in the Maine conference. The team had not won a football game in more than two years. But Morey wanted to prove that he had the coaching ability he had shown at Middlebury. He got the job."

"Today Bates is the champion of that Maine conference. Morey's team defeated Maine 6 to 0, ripped Bowdoin to bits for a 26-to-0 win and then swept on to beat Colby 7 to 6. It was the first championship which Bates has won in 23 years in football."

"Last week the powers-that-be in Bates athletics met and voted Morey a $700 increase in salary, something far more beneficial than many useless, but well phrased testimonials."

Bulldog-Tide Game
Will Break Deadlock

Each Team Has Won Nine Times in Southern Classic; Mehre Needn't Be Unhappy.

By Ralph McGill.

As far as I can gather, not being very good at tatting, this Alabama-Georgia game is having its twenty-second birthday over in Birmingham next Thursday.

It happens to be one of the most remarkable games on the records of Southern football and perhaps holds the record as being the most nomadic of all games. It has been played in Athens, Columbus, Montgomery, Atlanta and maybe in some other town.

My historian informs me that the first game drew $700 and that the Georgia coach went home delighted. This should be an inspiration to Mr. Mehre, who usually thinks that things are as bad as possible and that if any change were possible it would be for the worse. I would call Mr. Mehre's attention to the fact that he is not playing this game in Ludovici and he is pretty sure to have some thing like 25,000 cash customers out to the game, not to mention the sports writers who will sit up in the box and comment on the game.

WILL BREAK TIE.
Continuing in an historical vein, this happens to be a game which will decide a tie. Each team has won 9 of the 21 played. There have been, as one might guess, three ties.

VOL-WILDCAT
GAME FEATURES
DAY IN SOUTH

Many Old Wars Will Be Renewed Thursday All
Over Dixieland.

When the shades of night fall Thursday over the picked bones of a million turkeys, 15 of our conference football teams will be through for the year.

Every last one of them swing into action on the day we stuff. At home the Jackets will send a new organization against Auburn. At Birmingham the Bulldogs from Athens will try to end the season with a victory over Alabama.

It will be the last of the Auburn-Tech Thanksgiving Day games. Next fall will find the Plainsmen appearing in Atlanta along about the ideas of October.

WEEK'S BIG SHOT.
The big shot of the week, however, is the Lexington game, which finds the Vols from Tennessee, swollen with the accumulated victories of three years, meeting the Wildcats of old Kentucky.

This game is the stand-out of the day. There is a lingering faith in the blue grass section that the Cats from Lexington will stop McEver and Hackman and turn the ends that haven't been turned.

There is a burning hope in the blue grass. Not since little Clyde Van Deusen, Kentucky-owned and Kentucky-bred, splashed home ahead of the field in the Derby last fall has the blue grass been so stirred.

Knoville, with the long years of defeat forgot in the years of plenty, is going in a body to see the Vols win from Kentucky, the best of the three scattered hard ones on the Tennessee schedule.

VOLS FAVORED.
The odds are all with the Vols. Kentucky is the long shot. But Kentucky is used to being the long shot. They like it. Odds of three and four to one are fair enough in the blue grass sections. They believe that if Shippen Kelly can just get loose once he'll go. It's the sort of belief the fans of Mudville had in Casey. And they don't think there's a chance for Shippen to strike out.

Tennessee, one of the two undefeated elevens left in the conference, should win. The odds are all with them.

Tulane, the only rival for the conference title, meets L. S. U. at Baton Rouge. The Tigers, who have not lost since they were beaten by the Green Wave to break in pieces. The Tigers are expected to go down fighting valiantly, but to go down just the same.

DOUBLE TIE.
It looks like a double tie in the conference with some famous arguments and maybe not a few fists bounced off a few wooden benches. The Vols get together with a stein on the table.

With the undefeated carrying on, the also-rans are still active. The two finest gridiron players of the year will be played at Nashville and at Chick Hill. The real "classic" is at Nashville, where Sewanee and Vanderbilt meet in a game that has been going on for 100 years. The Ole Miss-Aggies hind is the Virginia-North Carolina game, lacking two years of being as old as the Commodore-Tiger affair.

North Carolina should win from Virginia, but the game and the odds the dope does not mean as much as it ordinarily does. In these traditional classics the boys simply take a deep breath, go blue and crazy, and don't remember a thing until the final whistle is blown.

VANDY FAVORITE.
Vanderbilt is expected to take the Tigers. They don't like each other very much anyhow, and the Commodores are smarting from the lashing received at Knoxville a few days ago, and will be going hard.

Another of the old sectional games is the Ole Miss-Mississippi game. It may go either way, but the Miss should win one at least and thus end the year successfully. That is the game in Mississippi. The others, boys, are just games. The Ole Miss-Aggies game provides drinking conversations all winter.

V. F. I. and V. M. I., meeting in the greatest intra-state game, the Old Dominion, may find anything happening. The Kaydets should win but there is no telling. It's one of those games.

Clemson and Furman meet in another game in which traditional rivalry is hot. There is another one in North Carolina with Duke and Davidson meeting.

North Carolina State and South Carolina, Florida and Washington and Lee, and Maryland and Johns Hopkins complete the Thanksgiving Day program.

FIFTEEN END SEASON.
Fifteen teams finish their season. The eight who have games left offer some fine sectional rivalries.

The Georgia-Georgia Tech game is one of them and it will be its usual ferocious self. It is to be played at Athens in the new stadium on December 7 and the Bulldogs have not lost a game there, beating Yale and Albie Booth in the opener.

There is one interconference game, the Florida-Gators meeting Oregon at Miami on the December date.

The Tennessee-South Carolina, Duke-North Carolina, and Maryland-West Maryland games end the season.

STAPLETON, N. Y., Nov. 24. United News.—Stapleton's professional football eleven swamped the Minneapolis team today, 24 to 0. Doug Wycoff, former Georgia Tech star, led the Stapleton attack with two touchdowns.

Petrels Battle Unbeaten Moccasins in Closing Game Thursday

TOPSY-TURVY SEASON ENDS AT OGLETHORPE

Chattanooga Eleven Is Tough and Will Put Birds to Real Test.

Coach Harry Robertson and his Oglethorpe Petrels will hang up their football togs after the Thanksgiving game with the University of Chattanooga Moccasins. In Chattanooga, Chattanooga is leading the S. I. A. A. pack with six victories and no defeats, while the Petrels have one victory and one defeat in the association ranks.

The Petrels stepped out this season and booked six intersectional games in a row. They beat three of the foreign foes and lost to the other three. Two of the losses were by special margins. St. Louis beat Oglethorpe 6 to 0; Dayton was taken into camp 20 to 12 in the dedication game at Hiram stadium. The trip to Philadelphia proved unsuccessful as Harry Stulderer's Villanova eleven won out 17 to 7, on a muddy field. Manhattan and St. Xavier were the next two intersectional foes to lose to Oglethorpe.

UNUSUAL SEASON. This has been one of the most unusual football seasons for the Peachtree foot eleven. The Birds defeated Georgia in the first game of the season and then lost to Citadel by three touchdowns the next week. Cy Bell, Fox and Herria were the stars in the opening game, but fell by the wayside against Citadel.

Against Mercer Saturday afternoon, Oglethorpe was "right" and won a 25-0 victory. Another touchdown was snatched away from one of the 13-yard line as a Mercer player fell on a loose ball, which slipped from a Petrel back.

There is and has been all season a threat in the Oglethorpe eleven. It can and has played exceptionally good football at times and again the same eleven players seemed out of the picture entirely and were far below their usual form.

Against Georgia, Villanova, Dayton, Manhattan and Mercer the Petrels looked particularly good, but against Citadel and St. Louis they didn't shine so bright.

BELL, PETREL STAR. John Columbus (Old Man Cy) Bell, that galloping halfback who defeated Georgia Tech three years ago with a sensational run and who was the star in the Georgia game with another sensational gallop, was the hero of Saturday's game. He ran a kick-off 90 yards for a touchdown in the opening of the second half for one of the most spectacular plays of the game.

Bell was injured in scrimmage early in the week and was on crutches Wednesday and Thursday, but Saturday he threw down the crutches and forgot a chipped bone in his foot.

Booth Tells Story Of Yale's Defeat

Brilliant Eli Star Says It Was Hardest Game of Year; Praises Mays for His Work.

By Albie Booth, Star Halfback, Yale Football Team. (As Told to Daniel F. Mulvey.)

(Copyright, 1925, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Harvard defeated the Yale team 10 to 6 yesterday in what was the toughest game of the season for our team. It was for me and I am sure it was for all of the other boys on the squad.

Besides being a hard game, it was the toughest to lose. We had pointed to a victory over Harvard and felt rather confident that we would score it. As it was, the break happened to be against us, for the whole Yale team played a whale of a game and there wasn't a fault to find with our line.

Ben Ticknor, the center of the Harvard team and later on in the game a guard, when an injured hand and arm made it impossible for him to work as a snapper back, was a hard man to beat and probably the best lineman Yale met this season. Even when he was hurt he was dangerous, and his work stopped McLennan, the other Yale backs and myself.

The outstanding man in the game was Eddie Mays. They call him the Buffalo terror and he certainly proved to be that yesterday. Wood and Devens both played in a fine manner for the Crimson—but Wood especially in his kicking—it was Mays who did the most in the Crimson backfield.

From a Yale standpoint, I think we should have had two more touchdowns, but didn't get them by the merest fractions.

In the closing seconds of the game Hoot Ellis looked like a sure bet when he took the ball from Wilson on the fake pass play—some call it the Statue of Liberty play—but Ellis didn't have a firm grip on the ball and sort of lost his stride as he tried to gather it in.

TOUGH BREAK. If that break hadn't come, it is almost a certainty that Ellis would have gone down the field for a touchdown, because there isn't any player can touch him in straightaway running. He proved that in the Dartmouth game when he intercepted Longnecker's pass and ran for a score, and he also showed just what he can do when he took a pass from me to score our only touchdown.

Men were right on hand then, but Ellis just outstepped them to the goal line and was a little over it when finally dumped.

At the opening of the third period I came away for a touchdown, but Dick O'Connell, the Harvard end, spoiled it all when he caught me by the neck and got me down. He was the only man near me and I could see him out of the corner of my eye. Just as he gathered himself for the tackle, I kicked. His fingers caught the neck of my jersey. That piece of work was good on O'Connell's part, but the end play honors for Harvard were taken by Douglas.

Douglas seemed to have a habit of blocking kicks on Saturday and he blocked two of mine, which, if they had gotten away, might have meant a different story. When I went in, in the second period, to drop-kick it was Douglas who broke through to spoil it. He got in and hit me on the shoulder. When it was subsequently recovered, it was Harvard's ball on its own 8-yard line. It was then that Harry Wood made a touchdown, with Mays as the chief backfield player.

DOUGLAS IN AGAIN. Later on in the same period, Douglas came in again to block my punt and Harvard took the ball on our 17-yard line. At the first block prevented a Yale score and was converted into a Harvard tally, so was this one. Harvard worked down to the Yale 5-yard line, but wouldn't make much more headway and then Barry Wood dropped back to score a field goal from the 15-yard line.

The reason for my being sent into the game with my overcoat and hood on was because Coach Stevens wanted me to get in before any more plays were run off. The game was over and warm up to take off the stuff.

Harvard had a good lateral passing attack and the kickers also placed their boots well. They evidently didn't mind the loss of time, for none were sent in my direction.

SHOULD HAVE WON. It may sound prejudiced, but Yale should have won. The whole team played a great game and though we all feel bad about the loss, it can be blamed on poor playing. Our team came through in good shape, so far as I know. Trux Hare was hurt, but not badly, and my leg was aggravated a bit, and rather stiff. Douglas, in blocking the punt, also broke a bridge in my mouth, but that is easily fixed up.

All in all, it was a hard game to lose, for the Yale team tried hard for victory. But so did Harvard, and it would have been hard for them to lose, too.

In football you've got to take the good breaks with the bad.

ENGEL'S MOVES WORRY OWNERS OVER LEAGUE

New Lookout Boss Is Up to Something; Dobbs Also Silent.

Mr. Joe Engel, smiling blandly and kindly, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Engel, if you have forgot, is president and owner of the Chattanooga Lookouts.

Mr. Engel, bringing his crafty ways to the league, has me worried. Mr. Engel bounces around a lot. There was a call from him in Atlanta last night from Memphis. There was another call from another city. Mr. Engel was not to be found. And then suddenly he appeared at a hotel, said good-by, muttered something about a ball player, and disappeared.

MONKEY BUSINESS. Now, Mr. Engel is usually sociable. And when Mr. Engel does not call about the newspaper offices and shake hands it means he is after a baseball player and he does not want to let the newspaper boys, as they say at the club, get word of it.

The late Bert Harte wrote of the Chinaman who was peculiar for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain. Once this reporter told that to a Chinese girl with stanning. Around cory in a gift shop at Minnesota. "It can't be so," she said vigorously. "You bring your friend, Mr. Harte, around here and I will tell him to his face it is not so."

HAS GUNS LOADED. Well, Mr. Engel is about to put something over on the boys. Most people hope so. The Southern league didn't do right by Nell when they refused to permit Mr. Engel occupy a chair in the directors' social room at the league meetings. And Mr. Engel is fired with an ambition to put a team in the field that will beat out the men who voted against him. And there will be quite a clapping of hands if he does, because this Joe Engel always plays fair and square with the boys and they know it.

Mr. Engel should pick up a ball player that some of the other boys are after, there would be some coarse laughter from some corners.

Mr. Engel is expected to be around on his visits, Johnny Dobbs is hunting deer and a warm place before the fire at Dover Hall in company with the Cracker. Spiller, vice president of the Cracker.

NOTHING TO SAY. Mr. Engel said one thing while he was here, that is that he would not have anything to say until the baseball meeting at Chattanooga next week.

Strange as it may seem, that is what Mr. Engel said. The new manager of the Cracker, had to say. His only announcement was one having to do with the purchase of Jimmy Johnston.

Chattanooga reports that it was not a sale. It seems that the Cracker are taking over two-thirds of the Johnston contract which had a year to run. The Lookouts are responsible for the remainder. It was a good buy. And it means that Joe Engel has him a very good third baseman some day. Because Jimmy Johnston is a good one.

SALARY CUTS. The Chattanooga meeting of the minor leagues is expected to find new breaking right and left. The magnates are going to cut salaries, so they say. And the signing of players is going to be very easy. It will mean that the Southern league will not cut expenses. There are too many new arrangements. The boys will be putting the money on the line as usual. But the effort to cut salaries is going to cause some surprises. The magnates aren't organized well enough for one thing. There will always be some like Lester Heinemann to step in and pay the regular price and take a player away from someone trying to cut the rates. And then the war will be on.

Marion Institute Licks Bowdon, 13-0

MARION, Ala., Nov. 24.—Marion Institute won over Bowdon State College here, 13 to 0. The game was played on a water-soaked field in a driving rain, making anything but straight football impossible. Marion was in the lead from the opening of the game, with Bowdon's punt 40 yards, placing the ball on the 15-yard line. After four thrusts at the Georgia line Thomas went over for the touchdown. McCree going over center for the extra point.

The Cadets scored—in the last quarter when McCree went off left tackle and cut back 20 yards for a touchdown. Pack failed to score the extra point. The game was hard fought throughout. The work of Lockhart, McCree and Pack featured the play of the Cadets while Captain Vance and Berry played a good game for Bowdon.

Moynihan Suffers Fractured Ankle

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—An x-ray examination last night revealed that Tim Moynihan, star center for the Notre Dame football team, fractured a small bone in his right ankle in a game with Northwestern. Moynihan was carried from the field during the second-period scoring flurry which gave the Ramblers a 24-0 victory over Northwestern.

Moynihan will be able to return to South Bend tomorrow.

VOLS WILL FACE KENTUCKY'S BEST

able strength has been thrown into scrimmage against the varsity in an effort to bolster the defense, and this will continue until time for the game draws near.

KENTUCKY'S FINEST TEAM. If Tennessee wins, no matter the score, the Volunteers will have trounced Kentucky's finest team at its best, at least that is the outlook at present, just a few days before the all-important clash for both teams.

There are four triple-threat men in Kentucky's starting backfield, each being capable of kicking, passing, or running, while "Shipwreck" Kelly has been classed by critics as one of the south's leading backs. This boy is equally brilliant on the defense and is great on receiving and breaking up passes. Captain Will Ed Covington has returned to form since his injury five weeks ago and showed the old-time skill in the V. M. I. game. Drury, Forquer and Wright are the best linemen.

Practice the latter part of this week was held on a frozen gridiron, with the temperature in the twenties.

PROBABLE LINEUP. The lineup Gamage will most likely have in the path of the onrushing Vols is: Left end, Baughman 196; left tackle, Wright 204; left guard Forquer 210; center, Williams 203; right guard, Thompson 200; right tackle, Drury 107; right end, States 192; quarterback, Covington 196; left half, Covington 144; right half, Kelly 173; fullback, J. Phipps 180. With Richards, Ford, Myers, Tom Phipps and Urbanik ready for action, this is the strongest possible battle array Kentucky has been able to muster this season.

Officials for the game have been named as Doc Lambert, Ohio State, referee; Wesley Wesslyn, Konyon, umpire; Don Maxwell, Ohio State, headlinesman; J. Wells, Michigan, field judge. The Thanksgiving tilt will start promptly at 2 o'clock on Stoll Field, playground of the Kentucky Wildcats. Every stadium seat, numbering 12,000, has been sold. Bleachers will accommodate 6,000 more and maybe 2,000 will stand.

Duke Prepared For Wildcats

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 24.—The Blue Devils of Duke are feeling pretty much like the famous French fighting force they were named after. As the date of the big game of the year with North Carolina nears the Blue Devils are gathering courage and the coaches are satisfied they now have a team that can take the field December 7 and battle on even terms with the Tarheels.

With the Wake Forest game out of the way the Blue Devils have but to vanquish Davidson to make the December 7 clash a real championship affair. And Duke is confident, but not overconfident, of downing Davidson Thursday afternoon.

Not a member of the squad or a single coach is belittling the Wildcats. It is the belief, however, that if Duke plays its top game that afternoon it can turn the trick.

Brilliant Passes Win for Packers

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Matching Eddy Friedman's vaunted attack with an overboard game equally as brilliant, the Greenbay Packers today assumed undisputed leadership of the National Professional Football league as they defeated the New York Giants, 20 to 6.

The defeat was the first of the season for the Giants, while the victory left the Packers' record unmarred by either defeat or a tie.

Twenty-five thousand chilled fans saw the game.

PURDUE FANS WILD AS TEAM CINCHES TITLE

Boilermakers End Perfect Season in Blaze of Glory.

By Bert Demby, United News Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(United News.)—Not since football players formed V-shaped wedges and tried to run over each other, back in the '90s, has there been the joy which continued to be manifest on the campus of Purdue tonight. For the 1925 Big Ten season is history and the Boilermakers possess their first Big Ten title and the first undefeated team they have had in modern times.

The Boilermakers kept their 1925 record clean Saturday when they closed the season by romping over Indiana, 32-0. Even if that 32-0 victory had been the only one the team scored this season, the year would have been considered a success, for there is nothing a Purdue supporter likes better than seeing Indiana defeated 32-0 unless it is seeing the Hoosiers defeated 100-0.

PURDUE VICTIMS. But, the Purdue supporters can look back to seven other wins which included the trouncing of Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin and Iowa, all Big Ten teams. Never has a Boilermaker team played such great football, and no team ever has demonstrated more convincingly that it was deserving of the Big Ten title.

There is some talk of the possibility of Purdue's engaging in an intersectional game with a view toward the national championship, but that is unlikely. The Big Ten crowns its post-season contests, but just the same there are many who believe Coach Jimmy Ebelan's team has a chance to defeat any team in the country.

In second place in this year's standings is Illinois. The Illini record was marred by a tie with Iowa and a defeat by Northwestern. Minnesota and Northwestern are tied with three victories and two defeats. Ohio State and Iowa have 500 averages. The former has won two, lost two and tied one, while Iowa has won two, tied two and lost two.

BAD START. Iowa has played good football all year. It got off to a bad start by losing to Ohio State and its doesn't need to be ashamed of the 7-0 beating it took from Purdue. The climax of the Hawkeye play, when the team administered a 9-7 defeat to Minnesota, when the latter team was considered a championship contender.

Chicago, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin showed little all season and at no time after the season started did either show anything to warrant championship consideration. Prior to the opening of the season Wisconsin was thought to have a chance, but in the first game of the year Northwestern unexpectedly downed the Badgers.

All in all, the season has been a success. There is some inclination to believe that the conference was not quite up to its usual standard this year, although it certainly is true that nothing can be said against the caliber of Purdue.

However, here are those who contend that the middle west still was good enough to rank with any other section. They base these contentions on the results of intersectional games. Michigan beat Harvard, Chicago beat Princeton and Washington; Wisconsin beat Cornell; Purdue ran over Mississippi, etc.

Then there is Notre Dame, the middle west's other undefeated team, which has been among others the Navy and Southern California. The Irish kept their record clean Saturday by winning from Northwestern, although their victory was costly.

Tim Moynihan, great Notre Dame center, broke his leg and will be out the rest of the season. Notre Dame yet must play Army, and if it beats the service team it undoubtedly will claim the national title. No team has played the varied intersectional schedule which Notre Dame has come through undefeated.

Unique Sport Program Planned for Cubans

Notables To Attend Games Between G. M. A. and Cuba Here; Night Football Features Card.

Cuba's athletic invasion of Atlanta, scheduled for this week, constitutes one of the most interesting chapters in the athletic history of the city.

Through the co-operation of G. M. A. athletes from the Havana Athletic Club and the Havana Yacht Club will compete with the teams of G. M. A. in basketball and football.

It is a good-will tour, the largest ever attempted. It brings to Atlanta 150 Cubans, including high officials and their wives and daughters.

One of the features will be a night football game at Grant field on December 6. It will be the first night game Atlanta has seen. The Cadet band and corps of G. M. A. will parade before the reviewing section containing the visitors.

This drill, with 300 students participating will be on of the features of the night. Forty cadets from the Cuban Military college—Cuba's West Point—are along by special order of the Cuban government. They, too, will drill.

On Wednesday night the two basketball teams will meet at the Point. This team will be witnessed by the entourage of diplomatic, social and commercial representatives from Cuba.

Georgia will be present in the person of the governor and his official family. They will, together with the visiting Cuban officials, occupy reserved seats at the games.

GEORGIANS, 'GATORS HIKE TIDE END TIE GRID RATING

Tech games ahead and a chance to end the season in the well-known blaze of glory.

Alabama will not be on crutches. The Tide has a mighty long way to go and close the season with three straight. They have taken Kentucky and Tech and would like very much to add the Georgians to their list.

Tony Holm and Spinner Campbell will be in action. Suther will not, but Long, who takes his place, is just as good. Wins will be at quarter. He helped the team considerably.

Today and tomorrow are the last days of hard work for both the Georgians and the Crimson Tide. A large delegation is expected to follow the Bulldogs over, the railroads having offered attractive rates.

Following is the complete record of past Georgia-Alabama football games:

1905—Georgia 30; Alabama 6
1901—Georgia 0; Alabama 0
1902—Georgia 5; Alabama 0
1904—Alabama 16; Georgia 5
1905—Alabama 36; Georgia 0
1907—Alabama 0; Georgia 0
1908—Alabama 6; Georgia 6
1910—Georgia 22; Alabama 6
1911—Georgia 11; Alabama 3
1913—Georgia 20; Alabama 0
1916—Georgia 3; Alabama 0
1919—Alabama 6; Georgia 0

Eastern Scoring Race Unchanged

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(United News.)—None of the Big Three of eastern college football scoring made any points on Saturday and none of the contenders made enough to supplant them, so the race for individual honors today stands as it did one week ago. The leaders are Marsters, of Dartmouth; Hinkle, of Bucknell, and Dowler, of Colgate.

Davidowitz, of Lehigh, who had been one of the prominent contenders, scored seven of his team's 13 points in defeating Lafayette Saturday, but could not come up to the leaders. He has a total of 72 points, as has Marrell, of the Army, who scored one touchdown against Ohio Wesleyan Saturday.

Standings of the three leaders, with positions, number of games, touchdowns, field goals, points after touchdowns and totals follow:

Player, Team, Pos., G. T. F. P. T. P. Marsters, Dartmouth, QB., 4 16 6 12 66 Bowler, Colgate, FB., 4 12 0 0 7 Hinkle, Bucknell, FB., 3 13 0 0 75

Boys' High Outstanding in Northern Division of G. I. A. A. Race

G. M. C. GORDON LEAD SOUTHERN HALF OF STATE

Two Teams Battle Thursday for Leadership; Hot Fight Seen.

By Roy White.

Riverside's surprise victory over Madison Aggies Saturday afternoon in Gainesville, Ga., leaves Boys' High alone in the undefeated class in the northern division of the G. I. A. A. G. M. C. and Gordon Institute are both undefeated in the southern division, but meet Thanksgiving morning in Milledgeville.

Frank Anderson, director of athletics at Oglethorpe University and arbiter for the G. I. A. A., will select two teams from each division to play in the semi-finals and the winner of each game will meet for the state football championship. It was voted at the annual meeting of the association early in the fall for the arbiter to name the two strongest teams in each division who would meet for the G. I. A. A. games or more.

OUTSIDE CHANCES. Madison Aggies and Boys' High were on the inside tracks until Madison was beaten by Riverside Saturday, and now Madison, G. M. A., Tech High, Clarksville and possibly Riverside have an outside chance to be named the other representative from this division.

G. M. A. lost to Tech High and Madison, was tied by Boys' High and defeated Lanier High, Columbus and Monroe Aggies. Madison has been beaten only by Riverside. Tech High holds victories over G. M. A. and University school, and two defeats by Savannah and Boys' High. Clarksville, according to reports, has been defeated by Riverside and has yet to play Madison Aggies. Riverside has several victories and one defeat by G. M. C.

In the southern division only Gordon and G. M. C. are outstanding, while Lanier High and Savannah are still in the running. Savannah was tied by Lanier and Boys' High in Savannah and was defeated by G. M. A. at Spiller field. Lanier High has the games with Savannah, Boys' High and G. M. C., but has been beaten.

IMPORTANT GAMES. Much depends on the Thanksgiving games in the southern division, for Lanier will play G. M. A. in Macon and either G. M. C. or Gordon will be eliminated in Milledgeville.

The climax of the local prep season was played Friday afternoon in the rain and cold at Spiller field, when Boys' High defeated Tech High, 18 to 6. It was the first time since 1919 that Boys' High had won by such a margin and was the "rubber" game for Coach "Shorty" Doyal during his five years of coaching the Purple Hurricane. He won the first two games, lost the next two and ended his three out of five last Friday afternoon.

"Make Mine a Mint Julep Shave!"

Once you get a box of BRISK, open the lid and shave with BRISK, you will never "monkey" with anybody's tube, stick or powder.

Why Brisk Does It.

First of all, BRISK lathers instantly and freely in hot or cold water and plenty of lather is the first requirement of a good shave. BRISK absorbs two to three times the amount of water that old fashioned shaving cream does. Hence it makes two or three times the amount of lather—and a lather that stays moist on your face until you finish your shave!

Lubricates The Cutting Stroke.

The rich, moist lather quickly "cuts" the beard oil and soaks the hair soft for easy clean cutting. Moreover, it lubricates the cutting stroke of the razor. You know how a bit of soap on a saw eases its passage through a log—well, that's how BRISK smooths the path of the razor. The razor does not "pull" or bump along over your face, but glides sweetly over the skin, cutting down the hair cleanly and closely and almost without effort.

Every stroke of the razor does a clean job. No need to go over and over the same spot and "butcher" your face to get a close shave.

Even the package that BRISK comes in is different. It's a flat, oval tin box for men only, convenient and businesslike to use. Let your face have just one taste of a BRISK mint julep shave. Get BRISK now at any good drug store or toilet goods counter—fifty cents.

BRISK has four brothers: ZEST, a refreshing after-shave lotion; TRIM, a hair dressing in creamy stick form; SMOOTH, a powder that kills shine without showing powder; STIP, a new type "stippling" that closes cuts promptly.

Take the flat, oval box of BRISK in one hand and rub your moist brush over BRISK.

Work up lather on your face. Start in shaving. Boy! How the whiskers go down before your razor when BRISK saves the way.

Bob Zuppke Tells Coach's Function

Mentor on Bench Cannot Control Affairs on Field—His Job Is To Watch Condition.

By Bob Zuppke,

Football Coach University of Illinois.

(Copyright, 1925, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Some persons want to take the football coach off the players' bench and moor him high in the stands during games.

This, one is informed, is part of a movement which sounds this slogan: "Give the game back to the students!"

The coach, to the proponents of the idea, apparently is a Machiavellian personality with the arts of Old Nick himself, who from his place on the bench in some mysterious fashion thinks and acts for his players as if they were puppets.

When a halfback winds and dodges his way for a touchdown all the spice of the feat is taken away because the coach over on the bench probably would him to do it.

New York high schools for two years, I am told, have banned their coaches from the bench, so who knows how long it will be before Knute Rockne and Bill Jones will be spending a pleasant, untroubled afternoon high in the stands chatting over their golf scores as their teams maneuver far below them.

Certainly it will be a grand rest for Howard Jones and Pop Warner to sit side by side in an upper tier and blame some ill-advised strategy on the third assistant water boy.

Those educators who advocate such a move apparently believe the coaches direct too much and destroy the initiative of the players.

What does a coach really do on a bench during the game?

One theory is that he constantly sends in directions by substitutes. He may send in some instructions, but they are far from as specific as fans might think.

More often the message is of a general nature, such as "Play safe!" as a player going in may not communicate with his mates until a play has been called the entire face of the situation may change and a too-definite order if carried out may spell disaster.

I usually have my quarterbacks sit beside me. They tell me that I say little to them directly, but from my grumbling and thinking out loud they get some idea what I think is wrong out on the field. But good generalship is largely a matter of right habits formed in practice. If the quarterback has not learned them any generalization I might utter would be of little value in the stress of combat.

MUST BE UNDERSTOOD. Again, an instruction may be misunderstood and the situation messed worse than ever, although Princeton once beat Yale through a misunderstanding. In 1899, when there were no rules against communicating with the team on the field, the Tigers sent a substitute running across the field who shouted instructions to have a certain player drop-kick. Princeton thought the sub yelled "Poe," and Arthur Poe, although he was not a kicker, kicked the goal and won the game. Of course our ideas of ethics have changed long since.

To put the coach into the stands will not solve the problem some persons think exists. The coach, even from that perch, could control the organization, fairly or otherwise, according to his ethics or lack of them.

For the welfare of every player it will always be wise to keep the responsible and trained coach on the bench to apply an expert eye to the condition of the boys.

Give the game back to the students? To what students shall we "give" it?

GRAPPLERS HERE FOR WORKOUT

Principals in Tuesday Night's Card Are Well Known in Atlanta.

With a genuine promoter handling the wrestling for Atlanta, mat fans of the city are looking forward to a real season. The first match is scheduled for Tuesday night at the auditorium.

Henry Webber, the promoter, is a former wrestler and is known for his honest and square dealing. He has promoted for three years in Australia. This enables him to get matches. He knows the wrestlers and they are willing to work for him.

Paul Jones, the sensational book-scissors man, will meet George Zaharias, the young Greek who has been going at such a terrific pace since getting a year of experience in this country in the catch-as-catch-can wrestling.

In the second match of the double-header card, Frank Brunowitz, the "American Pole," will wrestle Frank Nelson. The match will be full of action and there will be no stalling or delay. Webber's policy is wrestle or get out.

The four principals will reach Atlanta today and will work out at a local gymnasium. Tickets will go on sale today at the Five Points cigar store and at the Candler building soda fountain. Ladies may sit anywhere in the house for a small sum.

A preliminary with local boys working will be added. The first match will go on promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Webber insists that he will keep things going and that there will be no delays in the program.

New Speedway Opens Thursday

Despite the protracted rainfall that had threatened to delay opening of the Atlanta speedway on Thanksgiving Day, the track will be in shape for the speedsters, it was announced last night.

The speedway, which is a perfect circle in shape, half a mile around and specially constructed for the highest speeds of which speedway cars are capable, is at Pace's Ferry bridge on the Chattahoochee. The Atlanta race events will be governed by the A. A. A. contest board just as the races are at Indianapolis, Altona and other noted speed centers.

Large crowds visited the unfinished track Sunday. Four of the country's fastest race drivers will put their machines on the track for practice on Wednesday and Wednesday night for the first time. The drivers seen at the speedway Sunday afternoon were Henry Turgeon, of Providence, R. I.; Bob Robinson, of Benson, Springs, Fla.; Herman Schuch, of Indianapolis, and Charlie Cyr, of Boston.

Two of these, Robinson and Schuch, were entrants in the 1925 Indianapolis race. Turgeon has been at the track several weeks, overhauling a specially constructed machine using the Model A Ford block. Schuch is awaiting arrival of the Miller Special which he will drive Thursday. Cyr has his car at the track, a Fronty Special, which took prize money at a number of tracks last summer. Bob Robinson's Miller was getting its valves ground at the Speedway garage, in Buckhead.

Rick Decker, of New York, famous track driver who is well known at Indianapolis, will arrive in time to warm up his Miller on the track Wednesday, it was learned by wire Sunday.

Furman, Clemson Play Thursday

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 24.—To upper South Carolina Thanksgiving Day has always meant the Furman-Clemson game. The fall of 1925 will be no exception.

Clemson men recall that 27-13 triumph of last year, the Tigers' greater record of the current season, and feel confident. Furman men recall those nine preceding years when Clemson teams scored a total of 20 points, and feel hopeful.

The Purple Hurricane of 1925, with a poorer record, will enter the holiday classic much the underdog. The season will still be O. K., however, if Furman can beat Clemson. The stigma of Carolina's defeat will be forgotten.

Mawnin'!

By Ed Danforth

So they chopped Alabama off their schedule and substituted Pennsylvania.

"It is to be regretted that Georgia Tech has seen fit to drop Alabama as it will be a long time before Tech will get back on Alabama's schedule. However, the grid fans of Birmingham will be the winners. It will mean that Alabama will bring one more big football game to the Magic City each year—an outstanding eleven."

"During the seven years that Coach Wade has been at Alabama, the Crimson Tide has beaten Georgia Tech four times, tied one game and lost two. In five of the games Georgia Tech failed to score on the Crimson. It goes without saying that Tech dropped its most rugged southern foe because said foe would not take orders."

Tech has offered to play home-and-home with Alabama in Tuscaloosa, just as Tech does with Tulane, North Carolina, Vanderbilt, Georgia and, on completion of the stadium at Gainesville, with Florida.

The Tech folks simply have the idea that playing football games in municipal stadia here and there puts a football team in the class of a traveling medicine show.

Tech is altogether right in this principle; football games should be played on a campus.

Alabama merely prefers not to complete their own stadium and to play major games in Birmingham. That is a simple difference in opinion on the whole question of football.

And, my word, if dropping Alabama to play Pennsylvania is to be taken as a move to lighten the schedule then the Emerson School of Oratory is a deaf-and-dumb institute.

However, I imagine that if any defense is needed, the Tech authorities can think up a few answers. They must have had a good reason for discarding Alabama for Pennsylvania.

Stanford Victory Jumbles Affairs of Far Western Elevens—Season Ends This Week.

By Carle H. Bennett,

United News Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—Championship honors of the Pacific Coast conference will be divided among four teams out of the 10 when the season ends this week, the quadruple tie having been created when Stanford overwhelmed California Saturday, 21 to 6.

The conference schedule will be completed next week-end at Los Angeles with University of Southern California meeting Washington State. The winner will be one of the four tied for the title.

At present five teams share the lead—Stanford, U. S. C., California, Oregon and Washington State, each defeated once.

Except for a few separated moments in the first three quarters California was swept off its feet Saturday by Stanford. Then, early in the final quarter, California's defense crumbled as the Cards swept 63 yards to a third touchdown.

Failure of Lom's passes to connect and his running to gain heavily were responsible for California's defeat. His greatest run was 12 yards and of his 25 passes, 13 fell incomplete and four were intercepted.

In other games Saturday the University of Southern California trounced Idaho, 72 to 0. A 55-yard run by Robinson, negro halfback, gave Oregon a 7-to-0 victory over University of Hawaii at Portland and Washington State beat Gonzaga, 27 to 0. St. Mary's, which did not play Saturday, remains the only undefeated eleven on the coast. It tied with California early this year.

PRO GRID RESULTS

Chicago Cardinals 19; Dayton 6.

Buffalo 19; Chicago Bears 7.

Providence 20; Boston 6.

Stapleton 24; Minneapolis 6.

Frankford 24; Minneapolis 6 (played Saturday).
